

Catlin Law Repeal Is Assured by State Senate Vote

Five Republicans Side With Democrats in Labor Strength Test

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison—The political action leaders of Wisconsin organized labor today won their most important legislative victory of the year when the state senate in a test vote indicated it will pass the assembly-approved bill to repeal the Catlin law, prohibiting use of labor union funds for political campaign purposes.

Five Republicans, including Sen. William Drahem, Neenah, and three others sometimes called mavericks, voted with the Democratic minority to give preliminary approval this morning to scuttling of the act which labor leaders and Democrats have attacked for four years.

The vote was 17 to 14, as the principal lobbyists of organized labor watched from the senate gallery.

Corporations Can't Give

The Catlin law was sponsored in 1955 by Mark Catlin, Jr., of Appleton, then speaker of the Republican-controlled state assembly. It applied the prohibition to labor union financing of campaigns that had governed corporations for 50 years preceding.

Some Republicans had lost interest in the argument, holding that prohibition on labor financing was unenforceable.

Others insisted on making it a political test, taunting Democrats with the accusation they want to violate the individual rights of working men who may not want to contribute financially to candidates and political parties favored by union majorities under union shop contracts.

Sen. Kirby Hendee, Milwaukee Republican, today drove home the point during a long floor argument.

Men should contribute to parties voluntarily, and to force through to do so through union control over their employment is to violate the principles for which Americans have fought their wars, he claimed.

But Sen. Henry Maier, of Milwaukee, Democratic floor leader, said that union minorities should not be allowed to immobilize union majorities.

Civil Rights Issue

Labor leaders in testimony before the legislature called the issue one of civil rights, and claimed the corporations are evading the prohibition against the use of their money in politics.

Employers' spokesmen generally upheld the Catlin act at the hearing. Today Sen. W. F. Trinke, chairman of the senate committee which considered the repeal bill, described it as paving the way for "extortion" of campaign contributions from working men to replace voluntary, individual contributions to parties and candidates.

Assembly Gets Withholding Compromise

Tax 'Forgiveness' Proposal Offered By Chief Executive

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson's compromise "forgiveness" amendment to his income tax withholding proposal was introduced today in the assembly.

The move to credit the taxpayer with most of the "windfall" from a withholding plan is a switch from previous plans to distribute 54 million of it to counties and municipalities.

Under the amendment, income taxes would be cut temporarily to offset the accelerated collection of taxes which would occur with adoption of a withholding plan.

Tries to Save Plan

The amendment was offered in an attempt to rescue the proposal from sure defeat in the Republican-controlled senate.

Fred Riser, D-Madison, in offering the amendment from the floor, said it was his intention to have the bill made a special order of business sometime this week. The governor's building program bill and a Republican-sponsored measure calling for withholding of delinquent income taxes would be considered at the same time, he said.

The tax cut provision of the amendment would have the effect of crediting the taxpayer with $61,000,000 of the "windfall" resulting from adoption of the withholding plan.

Governor Asks For Permanent Tax Study Unit

Would Take Over Work Carried on By Present Group

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — Gov. Nelson today called for a permanent state tax study commission to review the changing fiscal problems of state and local government.

The governor offered the legislature a bill to create the machinery to study some of the complex tax controversies that are unlikely to be settled by the temporary tax study commission he intends to name to work out his immediate tax revision and financing program for the fall term of the state legislature.

His temporary "blue ribbon" commission will be appointed Thursday, he announced this morning, and will review the findings of a group of University of Wisconsin economists which is examining the prospective impact of seven separate proposals for tax revision, including sales and income taxes, singly and in combination.

Increase Inevitable

Some form of tax increase is regarded as inevitable in the fall. The governor has said that he will accept the findings of the tax impact investigation if they are "reasonably palatable."

Although a boost in the income tax is most frequently predicted, the state administration has not finally ruled.

Specify Governor Must Provide Estimates for Second Year of Biennium

Madison — Republican negotiators today withdrew their opposition to Gov. Gaylord Nelson's proposed state budget on condition he complete it with projected figures for the second year of the biennium.

The GOP decision, reached after almost two weeks of argument in the legislative committee on conference, cleared the path for Wisconsin's operation the next two years under an all-Democratic financial plan.

The balance of the compromise swung to the Democrats, but the GOP leaders could claim a victory of their own in forcing Nelson to abandon his original 1-year budget proposal. The 1-year budget has been a sore spot with the Republicans since it was introduced.

Agree to End Rubber Strike

Local Unions Must Pass on Terms Reached at Canton

Canton, Ohio — The United Rubber Workers and the B. F. Goodrich company today reached agreement to end a 55-day-old strike of 14,000 Goodrich workers in eight cities.

The agreement, subject to ratification by local unions, followed an all-night negotiating session here.

In Akron the union said the Goodrich workers will begin returning to their jobs immediately instead of delaying until after ratification voting, which usually requires at least a week.

Details of the new 2-year master contract and 5-year pension and insurance agreement between the union and Goodrich were not immediately available.

The agreement is expected to hasten an end to the URW's strike against Firestone Tire & Rubber company.

Involved in today's Goodrich agreement and also in the Firestone negotiations are provisions on everything except wages and a separate welfare pact covering pensions and life and health insurance.

Wages will be bargained later this summer under a re-opening of the master contracts.

Ike Stresses Need For Sound Dollar

Party Banquets at Capital Bring Republicans $300,000

BY JACK BELL

Washington — A sound dollar—with plenty of them available for GOP campaigners—is the prescription of President Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon for a 1960 Republican victory.

In a turnout that astonished its senate and house sponsors, Republicans overflowed two large banquet halls at a $100-a-plate dinner last night to honor party members of congress who survived last November's GOP debacle, and many who didn't.

What seemed of more practical importance, than anything said by either Eisenhower or Nixon—or a long series of other GOP speakers, was the solid fact that the dinner racked up more than $300,000 net for party purposes.

High Court Clarifies Sedition Law Rulings

BY STANLEY MEISLER

Washington — The supreme court has clarified its rulings on state sedition laws and congressional investigations, saying earlier decisions in these fields were misunderstood.

Splitting 5-4 in both cases, the court yesterday said state sedition laws may be invoked to protect the state, and upheld the right of congressional committees to question educators as well as others about alleged communist activities.

Refused to Testify

In making these rulings, the court affirmed contempt convictions against Dr. Willard Uphaus, director of the New Hampshire World Fellowship Center, and Lloyd Barenblatt, a former teacher at Vassar college and the University of Michigan.

Uphaus had been convicted that for Republicans "sound, stable, progressive government for this country is the greatest cause that we could have today... on God's footstool."

Fined for Not Being in Cockpit When Jet Dived

New York — The pilot of the jet airplane that took a near-fatal 30,000-foot dive toward the Atlantic last February has been fined $1,000 by the federal aviation agency for being out of the cockpit at the time.

Pan American Airways, the owner of the plane, was also fined $1,000 for failing to keep a flight-recording device in operation on the new 707 Boeing jet.

The co-pilot, who was at the controls when the plane suddenly dived from 35,000 feet, was notified of the government plans to suspend his captain's rating for six months. The reason for the suspension apparently was his failure to stop the dive immediately.

The jet, with 114 passengers, was flying from London to Gander, Newfoundland, Feb. 3, when it suddenly nosed down. The pilot, Capt. W. Waldo Lynen, was in the passenger compartment.

Air Service July 1; One Daily Round-Trip

A single round-trip daily will Clintonville, Appleton, Milwaukee and Chicago.

One of two DC-3 planes serving Wisconsin will be used. It will be taken from an existing route that stops at these cities: Minneapolis, Eau Claire, Wausau, Stevens Point, Clintonville, Green Bay, Oshkosh, Milwaukee and Chicago.

Thus, he explained, the service to the Fox Cities by DC-3 aircraft means Stevens Point, Green Bay and Oshkosh will lose one round-trip daily.

Other routes might be possible for service to the county port, Buttimer said, except that the port is too small for Convair airplanes, the type with which North Central is providing most of its service now. In the past, Buttimer has said the present port would be adequate if the present runway is lengthened to the east.

6 of Family Die in Crash

Boy of 4 Hurt in Tragedy Involving Auto, 2 Trucks

Duncansville, Pa. — Six members of a family were killed and another was injured last night when their car and two trucks collided on route 22 near this western Pennsylvania community.

The dead were Wilmer E. Hinish, 34, of Williamsburg, Pa.; his wife, Dorothy, 34; a daughter, Sonja Joan, 12; and these sons: Robert Zane, 9; Randall Clark, 6; and William Dale, 10 months.

The only surviving member of the family, Roderick Kent, 4, was reported in satisfactory condition at a hospital.

Deputy Coroner William Crawford said a pickup truck rammed the Hinish car from behind and shoved it into the path of a truck loaded with bags of cement.

The impact of the crash sent the left front wheel of the cement truck ripping through the car. It came to rest on the auto's back seat.

Neither the driver of the cement truck, Lester Hall of Claysburg, Pa., nor the other driver, Theodore McMasters, 35, of Duncansville, was injured.

State police charged McMasters with drunken driving after he was pronounced intoxicated by Dr. R. M. McNeal, a Hollidaysburg, Pa., physician.

Passport Denial Authority Upheld

Washington — The U. S. Court of Appeals today upheld the right of the state department to deny passports to Americans to travel to red China and other areas it regards as potential trouble spots.

The ruling was handed down in the case of newsmen William Worthly, Jr.

Worthy visited red China in 1956 and Hungary in 1957, and was denied renewal of his passport when he refused to agree to abide by restrictions against traveling to those countries again.

He brought suit for the passport.

The court's unanimous decision — written by Chief Judge E. Barrett Prettyman, said the secretary of state has the authority to set aside communist-controlled areas in which Americans are forbidden to travel.

Prettyman said the Worthy case in no wise resembles the cases in which the supreme court has said the state department could not deny passport applications.

Police Hunt Missing Boy and Locate Six

Milwaukee — About 30 policemen went hunting Monday night for a 5-year-old boy reported missing from home.

Not only was the boy located, but police came up with five other lost kids whose absence had not been reported.

The original cause of the hunt was spotted about 3 miles from the home he had left some six hours before.

The other five lost ones, also taken home, ranged in age from 2 to 8 years.

Atomic, Missile-Firing Submarine Is Launched

Groton, Conn. — The nation's first missile-firing nuclear powered submarine slipped down the ways today with the advance billing of a "vital deterrent" against enemy aggression.

A crowd of 10,000 watched the launching of the 380-foot, 5,400-ton George Washington, first in a new class designed to fire the Polaris missile from either underwater or surface.

President Eisenhower, in a message for reading at the ceremonies, hailed the new vessel as one which "will add greatly to our ability to preserve the peace."

"It is my prayerful hope that this ship will be always ready but never used," Eisenhower's message said.

After the launching at the Electric Boat division of the General Dynamics corporation, several months of fitting out will be required for the George Washington before builder's trials get under way.

Coal Mine Owner Shot To Death in Tennessee

Lake City, Tenn. — A drive to bring all mines under sniper's bullet killed a coal union contract. Three persons have been killed in Kentucky. Sheriff Woodward said, worked his machinery on a federal flood control project shooting is in no way concerned with union troubles.

The UMW welfare fund sued Fesler in 1957 for $34,111 it claimed he owed for back-slaying of Jess Fesler, 53, of contributions to the fund, and he Sunbright, Tenn., shot in the back as he stood beside his bulldozer on the project near under duress.

Five persons were questioned at length last night in the case against Franklin D. Smith, which was to have been heard by the Campbell Anderson — Campbell county grand jury next week. line about 30 miles northwest of Knoxville. It is in the coal-field area extending through southeast Kentucky and northern Tennessee.

The area has seen numerous cases of violence since the United Mine workers began a coalfield strike violence.

Dr. Sam Jones of Wartburg, a personal friend of Fesler, also discounted any connection between the slaying and the coalfield strike violence.

Baked Ham Blamed For Food Poisoning

Thorp — Baked ham served to guests at a church dinner was blamed Monday for sending 30 of them to hospitals and causing severe stomach pains for 50 others.

Twenty-eight persons were hospitalized Sunday at nearby Stanley and one each at Chippewa Falls and Neillsville. Only two remained under treatment Monday night.

Health officials said a check with persons reporting ill indicated all had eaten ham at the Sunday dinner.

French Decision on A-Bomb Causes Stir

Country Reportedly Intends to Bar U. S. Stockpiles; Declare Action to be 'Self-Destroying'

London — France's reported decision to bar U.S. stockpiles of atomic bombs from French soil created a storm today in the Atlantic congress, approaching the climax of its 6-day London meeting.

Reaction inside delegations to the congress was split, with the Americans taking a cautious line and the British outspokenly critical of the French action.

'Self-Destroying'

George A. Brown, laborite member of parliament and a member of the British delegation to the congress, described the French decision as "self-destructing."

"It means there will be no integrated air defense in Europe," Brown said. "I don't see how you can say anything but that the Atlantic alliance will be weaker as a result."

Word leaked out in Paris yesterday that President De Gaulle's government will not allow the United States to maintain control over atomic warheads stockpiled inside France. Since the United States insists on maintaining such control, the French decision apparently means that some 250 atom-carrying warplanes of the U.S. air force may have to be transferred from France to Britain or Italy. Those two countries have agreed to U.S. control of warhead stockpiles on their soil.

The report from Paris was the chief topic of discussion among delegates to the Atlantic congress, an unofficial assembly of some 650 leading citizens from the North Atlantic Alliance countries.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.) a member of the 130-member U.S. delegation to the Atlantic congress said the French decision called for delicate negotiations with the British and the French.

"I would personally like to see some pulling back from the use of atomic and hydrogen bombs," Kefauver added. "I believe we will be in a dangerous situation if the atomic club is expanded."

The plan to consolidate business management functions of the state into a new department of administration, backed by a coalition of Republican and Democratic authors in the state senate, contains a provision for the elimination of the board.

In its place would be set up a board of state government operations, consisting exclusively of members of the legislature. It would have seven members, including three senators and three assemblymen.

Nelson Now Chairman

The governor is now the chairman of the emergency board under present law, and works with the chairmen of the finance committees of the two houses. They are Sen. W. A. Draheim, Neenah, and Assemblyman Fred Risser, Madison.

The new plan would virtually remove the governor from the operations of the board which has the power to supplement or reduce legislative appropriations and handle other emergencies.

But all proposals for appropriations adjustments would have to come to the new board through the governor's office.

Fiscal Control

This would tend to give the executive control of fiscal changes, without giving him a direct vote on the outcome of proposals.

The emergency board sometimes has been criticized because it tends to represent a default of legislative responsibility for the control of spending.

It usually commands emergency funds of about $1,500,000. It has developed to its present powerful status during the last decade because of admitted difficulties in legislative preparation of budgets extending over a period of two years.

Jane Called Victim of Schizophrenia

Psychiatrist Says Young Slayer Has Split Personality

Mauston — A psychiatrist testified Monday that 17-year-old Jane Dakin, who has admitted the rifle slayings of her parents, was suffering from schizophrenia, commonly known as a split personality.

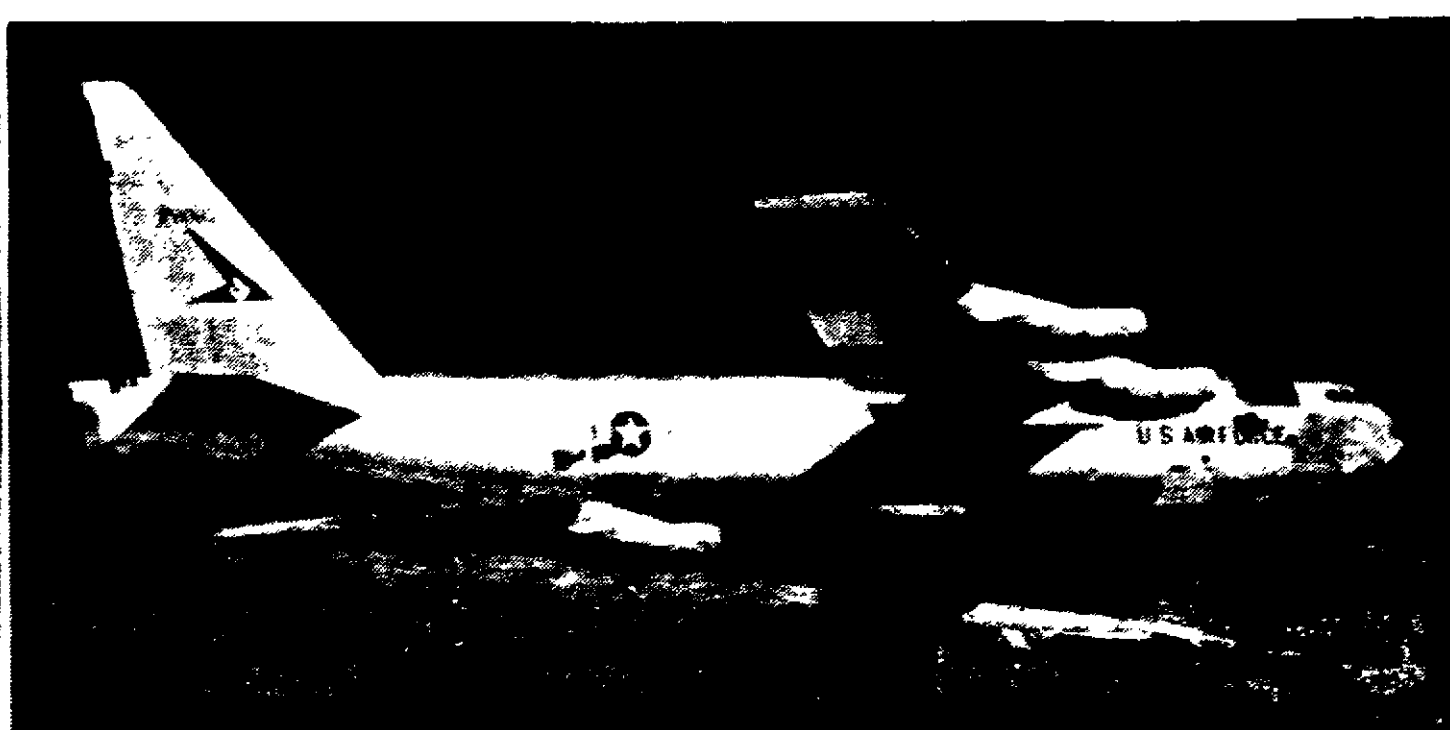

"Jane for some reason felt unloved and not wanted," said Dr. Jorge Paras of the state Diagnostic center. "She felt that she was going to end up as a dope addict or a bum."

Miss Dakin, who is on trial on two counts of first degree murder, has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. She has admitted shooting her father, Thomas, 46, and her mother, Elizabeth, 43, with an automatic rifle the night of Dec. 1, 35 Interviews

Dr. Paras said he reached his diagnosis of Miss Dakin's mental condition following 35 interviews with her at the center. He also said he was of the opinion that she never really answered his questions but kept many things to herself.

Miss Dakin was at the center for a week, Dr. Paras said, before she exhibited any signs of remorse over the death of her parents. He said that during the same period she exhibited contradictory feelings toward her parents, especially her mother.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, a staff psychologist at the center, told the court Miss Dakin was unable to communicate freely with other persons and was under "severe emotional strain." Mrs. Smith said that even though Miss Dakin willingly cooperated during the tests she guarded her feelings at the same time.

Call on Rebels To Surrender In Nicaragua

Army Chief Claims Insurgents Now are Out of Ammunition

Managua, Nicaragua — The Nicaraguan commander in chief today called on rebels against his family's government to surrender and claimed they had been knocked out in the rebellion's first major battle.

Gen. Anastasio Somoza, brother of President Luis Somoza, said the insurgents apparently ran out of ammunition in a bloody battle yesterday which, he claimed, marked a decisive turn in the 11-day revolt.

Civil Resistance

A Nicaraguan rebel radio broadcast heard in neighboring Honduras still reported, however, that civil resistance to the Somoza regime was increasing.

Agustin Torres Lazo, first secretary of the Nicaraguan embassy in Washington, resigned yesterday and aligned himself with the anti-Somoza faction led from Costa Rica by Dr. Enrique Lacayo Farfán.

Gen. Somoza gave no figures on casualties—either for the rebels or the national guard—in the 2-hour battle on a rain-drenched hill known as Cerro de La Luna about 120 miles northeast of Managua.

But he said, "I consider militarily these people (the rebels) are liquidated." He reported the rebel force, which came by plane from neighboring Costa Rica now numbered about 75 men. Many of them were believed to be sons of prominent Nicaraguan families.

Somoza gave this account of the battle:

The main rebel camp atop the wooded 500-foot hill was located when the rebels fired on a small government reconnaissance plane.

The insurgents, outnumbered 3 to 1, were surrounded and attacked by rifle fire, machineguns and mortars, and then were strafed from the air.

The battle ended after two hours of fighting when the invaders ceased fire, apparently out of ammunition. "To play fair" the guardsmen also stopped shooting.

ies. They sat side by side at the head table.

Both men still were on the first course when dozens of diners, together with some of the waitresses, began making their way from all parts of a big banquet hall to get the signatures of the president and Wayne on menu cards and anything else handy. Mrs. Eisenhower, seated at Wayne's left, also signed her name many times.

The president, the first lady and the Hollywood star smilingly stayed at it for about a half hour. Then Wayne apparently decided they had had enough.

Stepping to a microphone at the speaker's table, the actor giving autographs last night announced:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are going to have to ask you to stop asking for autographs here. I'm sorry."

That ended it.

Bill to Abolish Emergency Unit Before Solons

New Department Of Administration Planned Instead

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Abolition of the state emergency board, one of the most powerful and little noticed of instruments of state government, has been quietly proposed in inconspicuous lines of a bi-partisan reorganization bill put before the state legislature.

The plan to consolidate business management functions of the state into a new department of administration, backed by a coalition of Republican and Democratic authors in the state senate, contains a provision for the elimination of the board.

In its place would be set up a board of state government operations, consisting exclusively of members of the legislature. It would have seven members, including three senators and three assemblymen.

Canada Trying to Keep U. S. Navy Flotilla From St. Lawrence Seaway

Ottawa — A U. S. navy

Ottawa — A U. S. navy plan to send a 27-ship flotilla through the St. Lawrence seaway has run into heavy weather in the Canadian House of Commons.

Lionel Chevrier, a member of the opposition Liberal party and former president of Canada's St. Lawrence seaway authority, suggested last night that the flotilla should not be allowed into the seaway at all.

"There is no reason in the world why it should clutter up traffic," he said.

Transport Minister George Hees told the house he has asked U. S. authorities to cut down the number of ships. He said he also suggested that the flotilla go through at the rate of only two ships daily.

The seaway has been having congestion trouble almost steadily since it opened this spring. Canadian officials fear that passage of a flock of naval ships through the seaway to the Great Lakes will add to the traffic jam.

Hees said the U. S. ships are due to traverse the seaway June 23-28. He said he expected U. S. officials to reply to his suggestions in a few days.

Catholic President Could be Good, Episcopal Weekly Says

New York — The Living Church, a leading Protestant Episcopal weekly, says there

New York — The Living Church, a leading Protestant Episcopal weekly, says there is no reason why a "good Roman Catholic" should be kept from seeking the presidency of the United States.

The lead editorial of the June 14 issue of the publication will say that "it could well be that the Roman Catholic church may yet give Catholics a president and a good one."

The editorial in the Living Church, published in Milwaukee, says the history of Roman Catholicism as a political force "does not indicate that it crushes out national interests."

On the contrary, the editorial states, the history of a church as a religion "is that it nurtures its share of great saints."

"It ill-behoves Episcopalians, whose brother churchmen have had the presidency so often, to speak against the right of any religious person to hold the presidency because he espouses the Catholic faith or Christ," the editorial adds.

The Episcopal weekly's editorial is one of many on the subject, which have appeared in both church and lay publications, since Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.), a Roman Catholic, became a possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

The living church editor-in-chief said: "We know a lot of Catholics, and we would vote for instead of a good many stupid or impious Christians."

It also said "there are a host of religious splinter groups from which we would hope the next president would not come."

O'Brien Waxes Humorous Over Firing of 2 Employees

Anti-Secrecy Measure Of Democrats Stays In Committee File

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Sen. Leo O'Brien, Green Bay, was in his best humorous form Monday when the Republican representative of Brown county again tilted with Democrats about the anti-secrecy bill reposing in his committee.

O'Brien as chairman of the senate committee on state and local government reported a bundle of 22 bills from his committee which has sometimes been called a "deep freeze" because of its tendency to bury legislation in its files.

"This report does not relate to recent publicity," the senator intoned.

Whereupon Sen. Horace Wilkie, Madison Democrat, inquired if the package included the assembly - approved bill prohibiting all secrecy in state and local government, which has been halted in O'Brien's committee without hearing or other action for more than two months.

O'Brien Gets Chuckle

O'Brien replied that Wilkie's arguments for such legislation had impressed him so deeply that "I'm still studying the bill."

There was a pause for a collective senatorial chuckle when O'Brien offered another of what he always calls "observations."

"By the way, senator," he said, "during the Republican state convention during the weekend I had some inquiries about you."

"I said you're one of the best, and for that reason, I believe that you will one day become a Republican."

The Democratic anti-secrecy bill continues to repose quietly in O'Brien's committee file.

Third Man Admits Horseplay That Idled American Motors Production

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The American Motors corporation today rescinded its discharge of two men for horseplay with Saturday night after the unfired crackers that idled 3,500 production employees here done juvenile actions by its members.

A company spokesman said a third man "voluntarily stepped forward" and accepted sole responsibility for the firecracker throwing.

AMC did not say whether it would seek the discharge of the third man or if he had already been fired.

The company and union met in an all-day session Monday and then announced that the two men caught with firecrackers last Friday had been discharged.

When the bomber pilot asked Crossfield if he was all set to be cut loose from under the B52's wing, the 37-year-old test pilot answered:

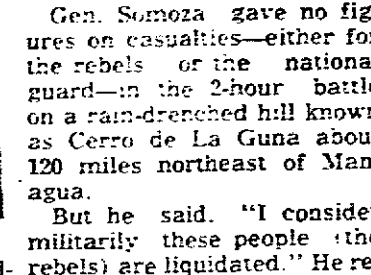

"I'm ready when you are, buddy."

The X15 dropped free from the bomber at 517 m.p.h. Crossfield held the ship level and cut air speed. Then he dove from 38,000 feet to 31,000 where he put the swept-wing plane into a series of pitch and yaw tests.

"It's a pretty airplane," he said later. "A pretty airplane always flies pretty."

Crossfield made a series of "Lazy S" turns between 20,000 and 15,000 feet before settling down at nearly 260 m.p.h. on the dry lake with the plane's skids kicking up a huge spray of dust. The flight took 5 minutes and 10 seconds.

The X15 is designed to rocket to the edge of space—100 miles or more at speeds of 4,000 m.p.h.

Autolite Firm Sure to Close

Company Officials Voice Regret After Talks With Governor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Top management of the Electric Autolite company has apparently closed the door to possible reconsideration of their decision to close the company's big LaCrosse manufacturing branch on July 3.

Company officials, after a conference with Gov. Nelson, issued a joint statement with the governor expressing their "regret" over the "necessity" for making the LaCrosse plant closing decision.

But the statement added that "further consideration of the decision is not possible due to the reasons previously stated."

The company had said that it was forced to control manufacturing operations because of dwindling orders and the excessive costs of production at LaCrosse.

Nelson reviewed the Autolite problems for more than 90 minutes, first in a private room at a Madison restaurant where he was host at lunch, later behind closed doors of the executive office.

Attending were James B. Falvey, chairman of the board of the company, from headquarters in Toledo, and Francis M. Wistert, vice president in charge of industrial relations, Mayor Milo Knutson of LaCrosse, and George Milne, LaCrosse banker and president of the Chamber of Commerce of the city.

Union representatives were Forrest Lambert and Malcolm Lloyd.

The governor and Knutson were obviously disappointed at their failure of their negotiation mission, which involves a payroll of $7 million and some 1,300 jobs in one of the principal industrial cities of the state.

Nelson told a reporter that he had been given extensive details of the company's sales and contracts, in support of the management decision to suspend production at LaCrosse.

Firemen Pipe Gas Across Bay

Superior, Wis. — Ingenious firemen today strung

Superior, Wis. — Ingenious firemen today strung lengths of hose across St. Louis bay to bring natural gas here from Duluth, Minn., after fire heavily damaged a railroad bridge that carries gas pipeline and power circuits.

The firefighters waded into water up to shoulder depth to bring the blaze under control. Lack of fire boats forced them to operate hoses from beneath the structure in the cold Lake Superior water.

Severing of the pipeline had threatened a natural gas shortage if the emergency repairs had failed.

The fire, believed caused by a short circuit in the power lines slung beneath the wooden Northern Pacific railway structure, burst the gas line and spread flame and smoke over the 640-foot approach section on the Superior side.

A fire department spokesman said damage likely would total $100,000.

Lions Hear Discussion On Menominees

Gordon Dickey Gives Indians' Viewpoint On Termination Act

The story of how Menominee reservation Indians faced proposed termination of federal control was told to Lions club members Monday noon at the Conway hotel by Gordon Dickey, secretary of the tribal coordinating committee.

Their great concern was for the forest lands the tribe had been preserving through conservation practices since the early 1890s, he said. They were concerned about their sawmill and timber industry and above all the future of reservation people.

"The Menominees always have been woods Indians," Dickey said. "They loved the forest, clear streams and lakes. Before the white man came, Menominee land stretched from the Menominee river on the north to Milwaukee on the south and included the area around Stevens Point."

Refused Plains Land

He told how the federal government in 1852 wanted to move the tribe to Crow-Wing country, but leaders went to see the land and came back strongly opposed to the move. It was not forest land, their traditional home.

There had been talk of termination of Indian wardship down through the years, he said. But when talk seemed to be turning into action, the tribe organized a commission to present a legislative proposal of their own in self-defense. The proposed terminal date of Dec. 31, 1958, fortunately was extended to 1960.

The elected coordinating committee began studying all phases of termination. By tribal vote, 89 per cent of the Indians favored a separate county.

Dickey pointed out the reservation area is not too small, because there are eight other counties in the state smaller. He also said there is ample basis for a tax levy to operate a county. He estimated two-stage, solid-fuel missile the annual tax on the forest 1,200 miles.

What Is Wrong When Prayer Fails?

A strange man in Los Angeles three thousand years by the name of "The Voice of Two Worlds," is offering free of charge to the public, an astonishing Booklet which is a great step forward toward the answer of us and that methods for using to this question. The search for them are now simplified so that clues led to a prolonged study of they can be used by almost any all the great religions of the person with ordinary intelligence, until at last a surprising new light was thrown upon the entire subject of prayer.

In this new light, even the well-known Lord's Prayer requires astonishing new meanings. Hidden between the lines are deep significances and wonderful truths that do not appear in the words alone. The free booklet points these out and is entitled "The Magic Between the Lines of the Lord's Prayer".

"The Voice of Two Worlds", a well-known explorer and geographer, tells of a remarkable system that often leads to almost unbelievable improvement of power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise. These strange methods were found in the Far East, where in ancient times all the great religions and philosophies of the world originated. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for at $326,000 under the tax bill now pending.

The proposed county also will be a single township under a 7-member board. Five members will be elected from districts and two at large.

To keep Indian business interests out of both county and tribal politics, Dickey explained that the termination act provides for a voting trust type of corporation to operate the forest logging and sawmill interests and recreation industry.

To protect the Indian and his future, Dickey said the tribe restricted the sale of forest and recreation lands, provided a 5-year moratorium on any sale of stock shares in the corporation and worked for the corporation to get first option on tax delinquent properties, should this occur.

This type of arrangement to end government control over Indians is the first of its kind in the history of the United States, he declared.

Air Force Orion Missile Gets Another Workout

Cape Canaveral, Fla. — The air force gave another test version of its highly secret Bold Orion air-to-ground missile a workout yesterday.

A B-47 jet bomber swept over the cape and blasted the rocket at a target several hundred miles in the Atlantic.

The air force prefers to keep test flights of this ballistic missile secret and no report was issued on yesterday's performance. An informed source, however, reported the test was another in a series designed to provide the air force with a missile capable of being launched effectively from a bomber. Such a missile could extend the life of the B-47 and B-52 strategic bombers. The planes could fire the missile from beyond the range of enemy radar.

Three aircraft companies are working on test models of the Bold Orion. They are Warner Counties in the state small town, Lockheed and McDonnell. The air force hopes to fire this erate a county. He estimated two-stage, solid-fuel missile the annual tax on the forest 1,200 miles.

Jesse Unhappy With School Open House

Says Program Was Disappointing; Claims Visitors Treated Unkindly

James Madison Junior High Richmond school addition school open house expenses fund. $13,932.

of $806 were charged to the school building fund by the board of education Monday night and board member Franklin C. Jesse said he was "very disappointed" in management of the open house. He complained doors were for 34 cents a square foot for locked, bleachers were not removing the walks and put demonstrated, and people were not adequately shown the building.

Unkind to People

"I thought it was unkind to let people walk into a dead end," as he described lack of directional arrows. "I don't know how you can sell the people something when you don't show it to them."

The open house expenses included $449 for printing, $146 for art work, $170.40 for newspaper advertisement and smaller items for food and tags.

Total bill expenses approved by the board Monday night through 1963, were: general bills, $33,620; Daniel Huntley building fund, $54,220; Madison school build- ing fund total $2,423; and Richmond schools. The additional insurance for Huntley and Richmond will be endorsed on the outstanding policy, Swartout said.

He said the board would save about $1,500 yearly on the deferred premium interest it pays when it permits an insurance bill to ride after contracting for it five years in advance.

Phone Service

Swartout will seek competitive bids for the auto and liability insurance, which lapses in September.

A request for adding two telephone lines at the senior high school was deferred until the present system and proposed system can be compared.

William R. Knuth, director of business affairs, said the walks need replacing. He said high school now has two direct lines. The school directory, however, lists seven phone numbers.

The board also authorized the business affairs committee to investigate using funds donated by a senior class to improve the exterior lighting at the auditorium entrance at the high school. Franklin C. Jesse, board member, said improvements could be made for about $300, using the present outlets and acquiring new fixtures.

The report of the physical therapists revealed that 923 Suzanne Cox, Mary Marquardt and Nancy Wendland.

No Worries

Children Enjoy New School Construction

The Appleton public school system may cause the board of education the city council and the taxpayer no end of worry, but for the grade school population, new buildings are a source of endless fascination.

Take, for example, two classes at Richmond elementary school. One was a primary grade taught by Miss Carol Ahlvin, the other an upper primary grade taught by Mrs. Ann Einspahr.

Progress Chart

The older children watched the progress on the new 4-room Richmond addition since early in March. The children made a large, blue-lettered progress chart showing when they were drilling on our various phases of construction took place.

Here is some of the text of their chart:

March 12—Cleared the snow with a big plow.

March 17—They started cutting down the trees.

March 18—They started to dig around the trees so the roots would come loose.

March 21—They built the crawl space by digging a hole and put up a wall of boards.

April 13—They are putting up the foundation made from cement and steel.

April 15—They are dumping sand and making a smooth for the floor.

April 20—They started laying cement blocks.

April 24—It was so noisy that we all had to go into Timmerman's room. They were drilling on our wall.

May 15—They drilled and we had to go down to the gym.

May 20—They put up the walls.

Remember Sounds

Smaller children's impressions of the building were largely of the sounds made by the workers. Jerry Vandenhuevel, a pupil of Mrs. Einspahr, wrote a poem about the building.

Bing Ding
Hear the hammers ding.
They ding and bang.
See the mixer mix.
Cement it will fix.
Tommy Stein heard different sounds; "Richmond school getting bigger. Bang-bang went the hammers. Sh-sh sh gos the cement mixer. I saw the welder."

Vicki Lynn Desens wrote an essay:

"I am glad we are having a new addition to our school. The library down in the hall is going to be something else. There was a hole in the floor."

One Memory

The upper graders' reactions to the building program were a trifle more sophisticated. When asked what they thought about the new addition, they wrote largely about the steps required to construct it.

One event seemed to impress them more than any other, however. It appeared almost every essay. As David Haugen put it: "One day the noise got so loud we had to go to Mrs. Timmerman's room."

Reuss Against Squash Courts At Bong Base

Washington — There will be no squash courts and steam baths at the new Richard I. Bong Air force base at Kansasville, Wis., if Rep. Henry S. Reuss (D-Wis.) has his way.

Reuss protested Monday what he calls frills in building plans for the base.

He asked the house appropriations subcommittee on military construction to eliminate such things as squash courts, steam baths, massage rooms and indoor swimming pools.

"They would be nice to have, but they are not essential, and the taxpayers should not be asked to supply them," Reuss said.

Bad Example

Reuss said he had no objection to plans for a gymnasium, an auditorium—theater, commissary and the usual post exchange. But, he added:

"If we start building an indoor pool, a squash court, a massage room and a Turkish bath at Bong, we may well be setting a pattern for all new military construction, and inviting pressure upon congress to build all these things at existing bases."

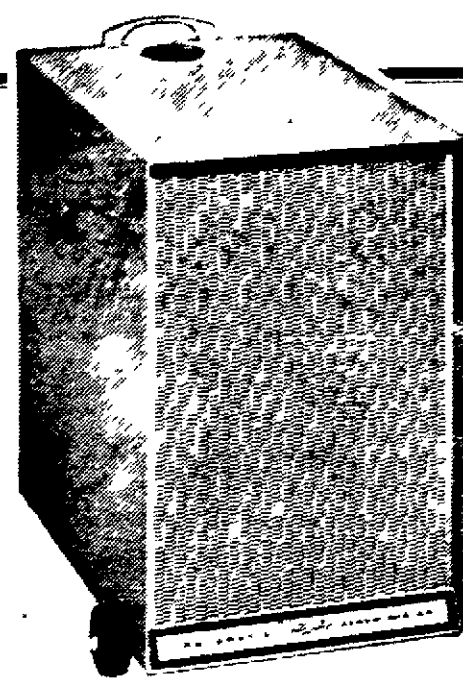

Reuss also questioned a published cost estimate of $495,000 for an airman's dining hall as compared to $525,000 for an officer's mess. He said there will be 564 officers and 3,533 airmen at Bong.

"Even allowing for somewhat fancier facilities for the officers," he said, "this difference in cost seems out of proportion," and I think we ought to check into it."

tion, they wrote largely about the steps required to construct it.

One event seemed to impress them more than any other, however. It appeared almost every essay. As David Haugen put it: "One day the noise got so loud we had to go to Mrs. Timmerman's room."

A Public Achievement

The gala dedication last weekend of Lawrence college's most colorful and complicated building, its $1,400,000 music-drama center, was much more than the private triumph of a private college.

It was, in every sense of the word, a public achievement — gladly and freely achieved by an enlightened local public who believes that there are some things the state should not do.

Most obvious sense in which the building is a public achievement lies in the leadership of the men who raised the money. Few of the administrators whose executive talents coaxed a crew of 500 to raise more than $2,000,000 for the Lawrence Development Fund For Greater Service were connected to Lawrence college by blood ties. Not since the late teens, when a public subscription for Memorial chapel sent squads up and down the avenue in a 3-day drive (heartened by community luncheon parties and band concerts at noon hour), have so many non-Lawrentians worked so hard for Lawrence.

Another sense in which the center is a local public achievement is in the men who brought it from dream to drawing board to concrete. Only two "outside experts" were involved in the job, for acoustical engineering and color consulting. The magnificent functioning and artistry of the edifice on the corner of Park and College avenues reflects the mature, even sophisticated professional ability of local heads and local hands.

Now that the shell is finished, Lawrence intends to fill its part of the bargain by providing the living organism inside. How will the community profit, beyond the satisfaction of adding to the strength of an already strong college which each year educates 175 Fox Valley students, 470 Wisconsin residents, and another 300 from 31 farther-flung states?

First, there will be two intimate auditoriums available for civic groups on the same basis that Memorial chapel and Peabody hall have been in the past. Second, the Attic theater will find an air-conditioned summer home in the building's arena-style experimental theater.

Third, and most important — the building will present a cultural diet of almost dyspeptic richness. The preliminary announcement of the 1959-60 festival year indicates that there will be at least 35 artist-level concerts and plays, in addition to the usual list of student performances in music and theater.

Most poignantly dramatic single event of the building's opening was the death of Dr. Carl J. Waterman less than 24 hours before he was to assist in its dedication. In fact, Dean Waterman and the old Peabody hall, where he was presiding genius for 43 years, died on the same day. "The Judge" came to Appleton in 1910 when the conservatory was new; his death coincided with Peabody hall's last day as the center of Lawrence musical life. Surely no one expected this ultimate paralleling of careers, though the conservatory was truly the lengthened shadow of this man's great teaching.

Dean Waterman was fiercely dedicated to a philosophy expressed by journalist Rebecca West: "Art is not a plaything, but a necessity — and its essence, form, is not a decorative adjustment but a cup into which life can be poured and lifted to the lips and tasted." This was true in Dean Waterman's conservatory, and now in new, more handsomely adequate quarters, art will continue to be a necessity at Lawrence.

American Wheat Problem Fantastic Thing

If farmers know how to go about it, they can do very well under the federal wheat program. Ray H. Garvey of Wichita, Kan., and his family have found it possible to make money by producing wheat, by not producing wheat and by storing wheat for the federal government. During the past four years the Garvey family received $791,488.15 in price support loans for wheat grown on such farms. The family received $405,647.15 in soil bank payments for not growing wheat on some of its land which formerly had been in wheat. In one year the Garvey family received $14,787,434 for storing wheat which it and other farmers grew and turned over to the government as surplus.

In 1947, the Garvey farm harvested nearly 1,000,000 bushels of wheat to set a record. Garvey was known at that time as the world's largest wheat farmer but he since has changed his principal occupation to the storage business and now is called the world's biggest private operator in the field of storing government grain.

The Garveys do not have this field to themselves by any means. The long established grain warehouse firms have all of their facilities loaded and are building new storage bins, farmers all over the country are enlarging their barns and putting up additional small buildings to use in the profitable business of storing grain. Farm co-ops are building great new bins and doing very well since their income is tax free. In the southwest, giant oil tanks are being leased and steam-cleaned and refitted for storage of grains.

Garvey says he is building principally tank or flat type storage which he can make ready for 20 to 25 cents a bushel of space. He receives 15 cents a bushel each year for the storage of wheat from the government. It costs him about 4 cents for operations. Taxes cost 5 cents, depreciation takes a penny and that leaves him 5 cents out of the 15 to pay off his construction costs. He figures in four years that he can pay for them and after that his profit increases. He doesn't claim any advantage, however. In fact he points out that the small operators in the lower tax brackets have an advantage over him as do the co-operatives which pay no federal income tax.

Today's champion wheat grower probably is Thomas B. Campbell, of Hardin, Mont. Campbell, in a copyrighted interview with U. S. News and World Report recently told how he operates 450,000 acres of Montana land in the production of wheat. Half of the land is planted one year and the other half is used to store up moisture under the dry farming system so that it can produce a lush crop the second year. Campbell recognizes that the large wheat surplus is due to the support price offered by the government which makes it possible for the farmers to make money by raising wheat. However, he is by no means ready to see the government drop the price support plan. He says the government has not lost all of the money it has loaned on the wheat for it has good hard wheat stored in fine water-proof storage but he does admit the bottom would fall right out of the wheat market if the government failed to support it.

His suggestion for a cure is to give away about 750 million bushels of wheat now owned by the government to people of India, China and other undeveloped nations which he says can use it. The government of course has attempted to do this on previous occasions only to be denounced by farmers of those undeveloped regions which began to lose their market as soon as the American grain was dumped upon them. Thus the wheat problem goes on and grows every year as additional bushels are dumped into the storage bins and the government continues to buy it or at least takes possession under loans and to pay out more good money for storing it. It is indeed fantastic and the end is not yet in sight.

Not the Best of Friends?

The Russian and Chinese communists are fond of announcing, with the proper amount of fanfare, how close they are to one another. Sometimes it begins to seem as if the Russians are just a little bit more fond of such announcements. But the obvious tendencies to an eventual split which might reach serious proportions give the free world a grain of hope if not a very sound basis for expecting a real flare-up.

The last sign that all is not completely comradely was the absence of Mao Tse-Tung at the 21st Congress of the Soviet Communist party. Obviously Mao had no official part to play, but it was a matter of a sign of solidarity forever for him to appear.

Basically, the Chinese reds seem to have angered their soviet brethren by their announcement last summer that they could reach the ideal in communist living in a much shorter time than had been effected in other red nations. But, when even the most brutal use of the compulsory commune did not bring plenty and happiness to all in a few months, the boast was withdrawn. The Chinese now go along with Khrushchev's speech at the recent congress that ideal communism takes quite a while to achieve.

Khrushchev also announced enthusiastically that more than a billion dollars worth of Russian machinery and technical assistance would be purchased by the Chinese. But the buying spree is to take ten years so the amount is hardly important.

It is a simple commercial agreement, not a gift or even a loan. And the last few years the Chinese have been exporting more to Russia than they have received, and they have had no economic aid from the Soviet Union since 1955. Somebody in the Kremlin just isn't too enthused about building up the Red Chinese army.

There are signs that officials in Red China are suspicious of the overtures which Russia has made toward the United States and other western nations, trade-wise via Mikoyan's famous tour, and diplomatically in the renewal of suggestions for summit meetings and agreements on Berlin. It's been a long time since anyone in Red China suggested any way of easing tensions between that country and the United States.

However, all the chatter about a split between the two big communist nations may have a more ominous angle. For years the United States has been urged to recognize the Red Chinese and to back their admission to the United Nations partly on the grounds that this would tend to lead China away from the Russian bear. It may be that the propagandists now, having failed in that direction, will start insisting that a gentler attitude in the west toward Russia will isolate Red China.

The more pressure toward an eventual parting of ways the better, but it can't include even a token backing of either side. Peace and justice simply don't thrive under any red rule.

College Graduates Can Find Jobs in Many Scientific Fields

From The Philadelphia Inquirer

Sec. of Labor Mitchell's advice to America's young people on the job outlook for this year's graduates of high schools and colleges contains some lessons of serious concern to everyone. There never was a time when one of the most critical problems of the modern age was better demonstrated. That problem, in Sec. Mitchell's words, is the "relationship between education, on the one hand, and employment and unemployment on the other."

The Wall Street Journal, after a careful survey of the job prospects for college graduates, says that the hunt will be a tough one for most of the big 1959 class of college graduates. It will be easiest for those with two assets: a good education and a marketable skill.

That is reflected in the demand for specialists from companies in electronics and missiles. The demand is strong this year again for certain types of engineers, particularly electrical and metallurgical. As one placement director points out, offers to engineering and scientific seniors outnumber those to nontechnical graduates three to one.

It is only in certain specialties that opportunities compare with those in engineering. Employers are looking eagerly for trained people in accounting, library science, teaching and a handful of other classifications.

The tragic side of all this and the dangerous thing for the nation's future is that in spite of the clear picture now available of the nature of the country's manpower needs the signs are going unheeded to an alarming degree. Undergraduate enrollment at engineering schools declined 5 per cent during the current school year and the number of incoming engineering freshmen fell 11.8 per cent from the year before.

Vast numbers of our young people are dropping out of high school without graduating and every year more than 150,000 academically talented young people fail to go on to college. At the same time, industry is readjusting to automation and other technological changes so rapidly that not only individual workers but even whole communities may be bypassed.

2-House Legislature Showing Real Value

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Those persons who desire stability and responsibility in public affairs in Wisconsin must frequently acknowledge their debt to those wise men who, even if they copied from older models, had the wit to establish a 2-house legislature.

Wyngaard

The visitor who sits in either house of the Wisconsin legislature these days for an hour or two must be struck with the realization that the state would be an unstable, almost anarchical place, indeed, without the check provided by one house upon the other.

Such persons must also be thankful that a generation or so ago this state was largely indifferent to the strident call of the reformers for the establishment of a one house legislature here, after the model of the Nebraska unicameral legislature, then the darling of reformers everywhere. Little has been heard about the prairie state's innovation since, but it may be concluded that the experiment wasn't altogether happy. The reformers haven't mentioned it anywhere for the last decade.

HOW IT GOES

The unhappy fact is that some very dubious legislation can win the imprimatur of one house of the Wisconsin legislature, under pressure well-timed and well-placed.

There are some pressure groups so influential that legislators will obey even without reading or reflecting upon the bills they insist upon, and without offering a word of explanation to those of their constituents with other views.

With all apologies to the merits of the cause of organized labor and the stature of some of the unions' principal spokesmen, the AFL-CIO is one of these. Every reporter in the capital knows that argument isn't necessary with scores of legislators. If the labor lobby wants something, they are prepared to deliver. They live in mortal fear of a wrong mark on the labor lobby roll call, which will bring them an "anti-labor" reputation in the next primary.

There is a celebrated incident and retraining involved in this changeover means opportunities for the adaptable, but it also means problems of survival for all, especially family heads who in the final analysis must pay the price in dollars and headache for the high school and college educations so important to the young.

dent of the freshman Milwaukee legislator in this session who boldly, with reasons explained, voted against an unemployment compensation bill to cover the small business operator.

The next day, on a reconsideration vote, he got up to apologize. He was completely wrong, he explained shame-facedly. He hadn't known that he was supposed to vote the party line. He didn't know that his own political interest was directly at stake. The galleries laughed, somewhat nervously, almost as if in recognition of the fact that this naive fellow was talking too much about a sad commonplace.

BOTH HOUSES

The phenomenon is not confined to the assembly. It occurs in the senate also. That might appear to refute the idea that one house acts as a control upon the other. But there are other safety valves coming into play.

There is the invaluable factor of time. Sheer brute pressure may push an ill-advised or even dangerous bill through one house, but time is an ally of common sense on the other side. Today the assembly is whipping through such a volume and variety of legislation that the idea that its members are really acquainted with their calendars defies credulity.

The same pressures will try to work in the senate. But the machinery is slow. It takes time to rout bills through committees, through hearings, through publication and the house calendars. Many a dubious proposition is a casualty to the time schedule, rather than to the conscience of the second chamber of the legislature. With adjournment the proposition dies and the public has a respite for a year and a half.

For this correspondent's tastes, the ideal legislature would also be permanently divided politically, one house responding to the beliefs of one party, the other to its rival. It would be an ideal compromise for a citizen who is not a radical, insisting upon change for its own sake, and is not a reactionary, hungering for the bills of a 19th century that never was.

Polish Artists Want To Keep Nation Free

They Assert Intellectual Independence; Desire No Return to Stalinist Restrictions

BY JOSEPH ALSOP | almost more amazed to see Warsaw — The dusty roads the most coveted university traveled by political report-appointments going to the ers do not often lead to paint- best men in their fields, rather- studios, to experimental- al theaters, or to long even- ings with se- rious philoso- phers. But in this strange city, the life of the mind is an irresist- ible spectacle.

I have spent almost all my time here happily exploring the life of the mind in the new Poland. Maybe it is presumptuous of a dust-begrimed political reporter, but I should also like to sketch an idea that this experience has sug- gested.

It is an idea intended to answer certain nagging ques- tions. What is it that sets apart the artists and intellec- tuals of the new Poland from the Western intellectuals and artists to whom they so largely look for inspiration? Why are these Poles somehow more exhilarated and there- fore vastly more exhilarat- ing? Why in Poland does one not scent the smell of Alex- andrian decay that hangs over so much of the artistic and intellectual life of the West?

Problem of Style
The problem is difficult be- cause it is a problem of nu- man style and atmosphere. Polish philosophy, insofar as I understand it, has some- thing new to say in a new way. But Polish painting de- spite its powerful creative surge is not enormously dif- ferent from modern Western painting. In varying degrees the same holds true for the other arts. It is the artists who are different in short rather than the arts they practice.

To make the problem still more difficult there are the wretched conditions in which most Polish artists and intel- lectuals live and work. Materi- ally, life is much better in Poland today than in the Stalinist past. Yet except for the few with established reputa- tions who hold editorial posts or university appointments the men and women whom I met were still living as very few Americans could bear to live.

Again, the life of the mind in the new Poland is quite as- tonishingly free—considering that this is a communist country. One is amazed for instance, to see such a work as "You Roi" by the French surrealist Alfred Jarry be- ing played in a Polish adap- tation by a university theater group in a back-jammed house. The brilliance of the production, largely staged and costumed with string beading wire and assorted un- derclothing is still less breath-taking than the thing itself.

Negro Shoots Sheriff, Asks To be Killed

Sanford, N. C., — "Kill me. Kill me. Please kill me. I don't want to go to the gas chamber."

That was the plea of a Negro man who was hunted down and shot by a posse Vernon Elkins, 32, a farmer after the slaying yesterday Elkins was shot from ambush of Lee County Deputy Sher- while driving his tractor. He iff J. L. Powers, 50, was not seriously hurt. Powers was slain while he Lee county Sheriff D. F. and other officers searched an area about five miles southeast of here for a Ne- gro man reported living in the woods and stealing food from homes in the area. The fugitive also was want- ed for questioning about the wounding last Wednesday of left shoulder and arm and the lower back. The wounds were described as serious, but not critical. Three officers — including Powers — were walking across a field yesterday when Jones suddenly appeared and fired a shotgun blast at them. The charge hit Powers in the heart killing him instantly. A posse of police and v lun- teers numbering 500 con- verged on the area. Twice, members of the posse ex- changed shots with the fugi- tive, but each time he manag- ed to elude them. About three hours after the slaying, five members of the posse spotted Jones and open- ed fire. He slumped to the ground. Police said he pleaded for them to kill him.

Work Started On Recreation Building Jobs

Tenth Street Park to Be Used for Boys' Softball Leagues

Kaukauna — Two summer projects for the recreation department are well underway and should be completed within a few weeks.

Vils Construction company has started on the $1,344 restroom in the Dodge street baseball, softball and basketball area. The field is one of the heaviest used in the city during the summer. Plumbing will be handled by Ditter and Sons company who submitted low bid of $1,700.

Build Backstops

City crews have built backstops in the Tenth street play area to provide additional fields for the softball program for youngsters. Fill is being hauled in to fill low spots in the diamond areas and pitchers' mounds will be built.

Since backstops had to be located within a few feet of roads to make the field usable, plans call for three adult supervisors to be on hand whenever the youngsters play ball.

James Gertz, recreation director, asks parents in the Tenth street area to warn youngsters using the new field during off hours to be doubly cautious about balls hit into the road.

Supervision at Various Parks Begins Monday

Kaukauna — Supervised play activity at various parks and playgrounds will get underway Monday, according to James Gertz, recreation director.

Full day supervision is scheduled at LaFollette, Hennes, Riverside and White City parks. Parks having supervision for half day activities include Strasburg, Brown, Glenview and Green Meadow. Beauview Hill, Pool Park and Nicolet.

The first day will be devoted to registration. As in other years contests and special events will be scheduled Monday through Friday each week. Special evening events and city-wide park programs are also being scheduled.

Street Marking Program Started

Kaukauna — The street marking program is well underway, city crews doing the work under the direction of the police department.

Plans call for crosswalks and parking stalls throughout the city to be painted. A new undertaking this year is the painting of diagonal stripes in crosswalks in business districts, near schools and play areas or where heavy pedestrian traffic is noted.

Diagonal marking makes the crosswalks much easier to see and a preliminary survey showed fewer motorists are driving onto crossings, thus blocking the flow of pedestrian traffic.

2 Shutouts Hold Spotlight In Kimberly Softball League

Kimberly — A pair of shutouts featured a makeup round of games in the Village Softball league.

Ron Hammen tossed a 3-hitter as Vern and Harry's thumped Tom's Standard Service 18 to 0 and Al Kneepkens duplicated the effort as he tossed a 3-hitter past Bill's Bar in leading Shy's Alleys to a 17 to 0 win. In the other league game Van Elzen's Orchards tripped Dud's Inn, 9 to 7.

Van Elzen's and Vern and Harry's are currently tied for the league lead with 3-0 records. Shy's has a 2-1 mark. Dud's is 1-2 and Tom's and Bill's both have lost three straight.

Tom Vandenberg laced a homer and triple to lead the offensive attack for Vern and Harry's over Tom's. The winners broke the game wide open by scoring nine runs in the fifth inning.

Shy's exploded for six runs in the fifth and added 11 in the seventh for the lopsided victory over Bill's. The tilt was scoreless until the winners erupted. Nic Gaffney led the way with three hits in four trips.

Van Elzen's scored three runs in the sixth to snap a 6 to 6 deadlock in posting the 9 to 7 win over Dud's. The loss fought back in the last inning but a rally was halted after one run had scored.

Carl Vanden Boom hit a homer and Norb Santkuyil had two for three to lead Van Elzen's. For Dud's, Dick Waldhart and Tom Vandehey hit for the circuit.

Nikita Wants West to Give In at Summit

Red Leader Voices Contradiction in Recent Interview

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

London — Nikita Khrushchev has presented another of his exasperating contradictions. In one breath, he says in a published interview that the Soviet Union would agree to a "perpetuation of the occupation regime in West Berlin." In another, he says urgent international questions can be settled only in a conference of the heads of government at a summit meeting. This is merely a way of announcing that, if President Eisenhower is willing to surrender at a summit meeting, during the time of the Geneva conference of the four foreign ministers. The Soviet leader's idea of moving tension is simply to have his way in Europe. Khrushchev's strategy is about the missile-rattling by out in the open at last. He apparently never wanted the banya last week. four-power conference at Geneva to succeed. He has put obstacle after obstacle into the path of the western foreign ministers, yet at any moment he could have instructed Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to work out a compromise with the West on almost any issue. Build Prestige Will the West now give in and grant Khrushchev the summit conference he wants, thus bowing dramatically to his dictatorial power and building up his prestige behind the iron curtain? After the Khrushchev interview, there isn't much for the four foreign ministers to do at Geneva but to pack up their suitcases and go home. There will not be any more tension afterward than there is now. Perhaps the firmness of the West may even indicate to the peoples behind the iron curtain that Khrushchev's contradictions are not getting him anywhere. Curiously enough after all Khrushchev's tirades against American military men for talking about their defenses against aggression, he himself has just boasted of how he can threaten Greece and Italy from rocket and missile bases in Albania and the Balkans. The Moscow radio in the last few days has directed its fury at the tenth anniversary meeting here of NATO, declaring that it should not have been held at a summit meeting, during the time of the Geneva conference of the four foreign ministers. # Weed Spraying Program Starts

Kaukauna — The city weed spraying program has started in keeping with the policy of the common council to try the spraying rather than weed cutting program carried out in other years. City officials felt a program of spraying carried out regularly during the summer months for the next few years could ultimately lead to elimination of the cutting problem. George Luebke, president of the board of public works, and William Lambie, street department foreman, have charge of the work. A program rotating weed spraying will be established.

Gold Shift Not Same as in '30's

BY SYLVIA PORTER out of the United States now. Say a foreign country has been selling a lot of goods here and as a result has accumulated $50 million in dollars in its account at the New York Federal Reserve bank. It decides it wants to transfer the dollars into gold so it can show a healthier balance of the precious metal in its statement to its citizens. It calls the federal bank and tells it to take the $50 million from its account and buy gold. The bank calls the U.S. assay office and buys the gold at $35 an ounce plus a handling charge. Then some armored trucks draw up to the assay office and with much cloak-and-dagger secrecy the gold bars, bank of New York where worth about $14,000 each, are shrewd, wealthy men waited transferred to the federal reserve, about 15 minutes walk-boards. I remember the weeks when the run on our gold reached staggering proportions. Finally we slapped the embargo on gold exports, level of the earth on which We reduced the gold value of gold from $20.67 an ounce to $35 an ounce on Jan. 31, 1934. $2.6 Billion Lost Once again, more than two decades later, we are again witnessing a major outflow of gold. Since the start of 1956 we have lost over $2.6 billion of the metal, the heaviest loss in our history. And although our gold stock still tops $20 billion, our reserve is the lowest since the end of World War II, and no serious observer is shrugging off the warnings inherent in a gold loss of the magnitude of 1953. Foreign Sales But the gold is not leaving our shores as in the early '30s. Most of it is going "across the street" from one set of town New York is that any- in the U.S. assay office body should take the trouble in downtown Manhattan to move the stuff at all." Other set of cages in the New York Federal Reserve bank a few short blocks away. Here is how gold is flowing trade patterns. Our losses are

Hilbert Board Calls Off Work On Sidewalks

Residents Protest Projects Brings Walks Too Close

Hilbert — The village board last week called off the proposed sidewalk construction project along Sixth, Seventh and Calumet streets after hearing strong protests from property owners. Major opposition developed from residents who told the board that street work done several years ago had chipped up to two feet of their property and sidewalk work now would put such walks too close to their homes. Most argued there was little pedestrian traffic along the streets. Curfew Enforcement Board members also heard complaints of violations of the village curfew ordinance. Many 14-year-olds and young persons are out after the 9 p.m. hour, it was said. The U.S. has $50 million less of gold on its books. The foreign country has $50 million more of gold on its books. Now the significance of the difference between today's gold outflow and that of the early '30s becomes clear. For, were the nations of the free world anticipating another crisis of gold here, they would not be settling for such simple transfers of the metal. They would be eagerly paying will be held this month and the shipping charges and moving the gold to areas they considered safer. Take the Trouble Were we really heading for another run on our gold, "Business Week" would not be calmly saying. "The only strange thing about the physical transfer of gold in downtown Manhattan is that any- in the U.S. assay office body should take the trouble in downtown Manhattan to move the stuff at all." Other set of cages in the New York Federal Reserve bank a few short blocks away. Here is how gold is flowing trade patterns. Our losses are

Nelson Seeks Protection for Policy Holders

Madison—Gov. Gaylord Nelson said Monday he would sponsor legislation aimed at protection of holders of sickness and accident insurance before they are forced to discontinue their policies.

He said a bill would be introduced in the Assembly by Assemblyman Roy E. Naleid, Racine Democrat.

Under present law policies may be cancelled at any time on five days notice and renewal may be refused on five days notice.

The proposed law would provide that companies could terminate sickness and accident policies only on annual renewal dates and then only after giving 30 days notice.

The governor said the state insurance department had received more than 100 complaints in the past year over abrupt termination of policies.

I would say that he is stern. I would also say that he is, at times, inflexible.

As to the second charge, that he was incomplete inaccurate and even untruthful in his accounts to the congressional committee, he says one thing and Anderson another.

Perhaps Anderson, who is Strauss's particular opponent, can explain the motivation for his charges or perhaps he can explain why with so many pages of superlative testimony, there is nothing in the record which really upholds this charge.

Woman Has Neighbor Problems

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I moved to the suburbs about six months ago and like living here very much except for one thing—overfriendly neighbors. There is one in particular who lives next door to me who thinks nothing of running in and out of my house every chance she gets. I am busy all morning with household chores and I find this constant intrusion very annoying. Will you please tell me how to cope with this situation without being unduly rude?

Answer: Your problem of an overfriendly neighbor is a serious one that has no satisfactory solution. Try without being rude, to be less than enthusiastic when she comes in. If this does not help, be busy and ask if she won't come back later, or tell her frankly that you don't like to be seen even by her until you are dressed for guests and your house is in apple pie order.

Formal Greeting

Dear Mrs. Post: I think it is too formal to say "how do you do" when introduced to young people of my own age (I'm 13). Mother thinks this may be true, but she also thinks that "hello" or "hi" isn't just the thing to say to strangers. If no matter how young they are I would like your opinion. Answer: When you are introduced to an older person it is correct and not too formal to say "how do you do." "Hello" or "hi" is quite all

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

With June "bust-in" out all over, planned tanning sessions are in order for sun-loving mothers. A few reminders for safe and happy sun basking.

- Start slowly... 2 minutes a day, divided into two tummy and back. Increase by two minutes each day. Limit exposure to 30 minutes no matter how tan you think baby is.
- Be generous with baby oil. It protects skin, speeds tanning.
- Shun scorching midday hours. Sessions before midmorning or late afternoon are best, depending on nap schedules.

Strengthening influence for your baby. I'm talking about the rich supply of strength-giving, body-building proteins your baby gets from Gerber Strained and Junior Meats. Only selected Armour cuts are used. Special processing removes most of the fat and coarse tissue. All are pure meat, with just enough broth to bring out the best in the flavors. 8 Strained, 5 Junior varieties, including the new Junior Chicken. Serve any one to the tune of blissful sighs.

Double-duty division. Think twice before you toss out dad's frayed-at-the-neck shirts. Minus sleeves they make wonderful protectors for finger-painting toddlers. With sleeves they make fine dress protectors for you if you've a wee one to feed and burp.

Popular combinations for the younger generation. Gerber Strained or Junior High Meat Dinners are big favorites with small fry. That's because they have 3 times as much savory meat as regular vegetable and meat combinations. All this succulent meat is subtly blended with selected vegetables and cereal for perfectly wonderful flavor and a generous assortment of essential nutrients... protein, plenty, iron and high vitamin-A value. Your Problems

This 'Realist' Forgot to Look At All the Facts About Sweden

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I believe you hand out a lot of bum advice and try to sell Americans on an antiquated code of morals which is inconsistent with human nature.

You hold two contradictory theories: Young women should not Ann Landers become familiar with men until they are safely and securely married. You repeatedly emphasize the hazards of young people getting married.

I agree with you on Number 2, but does this mean a person should just throw away the most romantic years of his life — say between 14 and 19?

In Sweden girls generally don't marry until they have passed the middle 20s. But they don't waste any time. Young people are permitted to take vacations together and no one thinks a thing of it.

By implying there's something evil about sex you attach a stigma to it which is impossible to remove, even after marriage.

I think it's time you woke up and smelled the coffee and brought our American moral code up to date. And while you're at it, don't forget to tell the people that the divorce rate in Sweden is much lower than ours. Thank you. — Realist

Dear Realist: I don't know what you consider throwing away the most romantic years of one's life, but I hear from plenty of American boys and girls who have experimented with the Swedish system over here. They are called parents.

I challenge you to show me a single column in which I suggested that sex is evil. It is part of God's plan. It is essential to a good marriage and to lasting love. The thing that's evil is the abuse or misuse of something intended to be meaningful and beautiful.

Maybe the divorce rate in Sweden isn't very high but the number of out-of-wedlock babies and the suicides make up for it. Both rates are among the highest in all the world. You're welcome.

DEAR ANN: I'm 12 years old and have real trouble. Two weeks ago the teacher appointed me class chairman. This is the same as being the teacher when she's out of the room.

Some of my best friends talked and I had to put their names down. I didn't know it was possible to lose so many friends all at one time.

I told my mother and she said I shouldn't have put their names down. Wouldn't the teacher lose respect for me if I hadn't done the job right? What shall I do if I'm ever in this spot again? — Worried Pupil

Dear Worried: The same thing. The teacher selected you because she trusted you to do an honest job. You were expected to report all who misbehaved — special friends included.

You won't lose any real friends because of this. Don't worry about it.

DEAR ANN: I married a widower who has an 11-year-old son. Since my previous marriage never produced children I was so happy at the prospect of being a mother by proxy.

My husband and I do not agree on something. I'm sure you will be on my side as I have yet to find us in disagreement, and I've read your column faithfully for years.

Should a boy help his mother in the kitchen? I work an 8-hour day in an office and sometimes I ask Johnny to dry the dishes and take out the trash. My husband thinks this is making a sissy out of him. When he saw Johnny in one of my rather frilly aprons he threw a fit. May I have your thinking? — New Mom

Dear Mom: I'm with you 50 per cent of the way. It's perfectly all right (in fact downright admirable) for a boy to help his mom with the dishes but for Pete's sake, take your frilly apron off the kid and buy him a man's barbecue apron.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for Ann Landers' new booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a choose what color thread she large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Send in care of this newspaper. (Copyright, 1959)

Tomorrow's Bridge—Today South's Reckless Bid Justified by Playing

BY WILLIAM SEAMON

North-South are vulnerable South deals

The bidding:
South West North East
1 D Pass 2 D Pass
3 N T Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Six of spades
The less said about the bidding, the better. This kind of bidding defies any description. One thing is for sure—South made a reckless gambling bid but he played the hand in a manner to justify his bidding.

West led the six of spades and South took East's eight with his king. Declarer now led a small diamond and the queen won in dummy. The jack of diamonds was played and West won the ace. Hurdled. West returned the five of spades. East showed out, discarding the nine of hearts but it was too late. South won the trick with the nine of spades, cashed his two good diamonds and then the ace of spades.

East still hoped to defeat the hand and threw two clubs on the fourth diamond and the ace of spades whereupon South ran his four clubs to make four no trump.

What about South's first play — winning the spade lead with the king? On the surface it appears that South is losing a certain trick but what is one trick when an entire suit is open? South's first play practically guaranteed your opponents' hands. If you do, you lose all rights and it is your duty to protect partner from revoking or leading from the wrong hand.

To have more fun at the bridge table, send a stamped, perhaps it might be but I self-addressed envelope for trust that you won't have to the leaflet containing basic make plays like this because principles of Tomorrow's you won't be in contracts Bridge — Today. Address your request to William Seamon, 309 N. Commercial St., Neenah, Wis. 54956. (Copyright, 1959)

Celtus Melotte, 18, Green Bay, drowned Monday while swimming at Twin Bridges park near Crivits. Celtus, celebrating his birthday and the start of the family's two-week vacation, was in the water with his brother, Winfred, 20, when he stepped into a deep hole.

The body of 7-year-old Douglas Luke, Chicago, was recovered from Lake Arbustus near Hatfield in Jackson county late Monday. Authorities began dragging operations when an all-night search that began Sunday failed to turn up any trace of the boy.

Make Plans Ahead For Air Conditioner

Home Can be Old or New, Big or Small and There's Central Type System Available to Fit Needs

System Works Like Radiator In Reverse

Air Travels Across Gas-Chilled Coils, Heat Pushed Out

Whether your home is old, new, or still in the planning (or make a decision alone), says even dreaming) stages; one, whether it's big, small or any-where in between; whether it's a rambling ranch or a 2-story colonial—there's a central air conditioning system that's just right for you.

The only problem, according to experts is to find that "just right" system.

"There are too many factors involved in the purchase of year-round home air condi-

"First you must determine what type of air conditioning a 2-best fits your needs.

"Then you have to plan the best place to locate it," he added, "and finally, you must choose the unit or combination of units which will do the best job for the least cost.

All the Answers
"Only an air conditioning dealer can give you all the answers."

In most cases home-owners decide what type of air conditioning they should have and where it might best be located before they make a final choice of make and model.

For example, the two basic types of home air conditioning systems are called "pack- aged" and "split" systems.

If you have steam or hot water heat in your home, or if you have no furnace whatever, you will need a "pack- aged" unit, which consists of a single unit containing the evaporator coils, compressor, and blower fan.

In this case, installation of air conditioning also would require that air ducts be installed throughout your home.

If, on the other hand, you already have a forced air heating system, then you may install either a packaged unit or a split system utilizing the already existing air ducts to circulate cool air in the summer as well as warm air in the winter.

With a choice of either type when should you install?

The split system gets its name from the fact that the cooling coils are located above the furnace, while the com-pressor-condenser unit is located outdoors. Since the unit uses your present furnace blower fan and ducts, you save almost half the cost of the complete unit and installation. And, because the compressor unit is located outside, you hear no sounds of operation inside your home.

Reduced Costs
Reduced installation costs may be an advantage of the packaged system as well however, particularly if your present furnace is located near an outside wall. In such a case, the unit may be installed through the wall, extending into existing ducts.

You save the cost of installing the piping which connects the indoor cooling coils and the outdoor condenser in the split-system.

As a general rule, however, the split system is used in older homes, where it is added on to the warm air furnace, while in new construction, either system often is used.

Again, your local air conditioning dealer is in the best position to help you with a final decision.

As for where the unit should be located, the solution to your problem lies in the fact that major manufacturers now make the greatest variety of residential air conditioning systems in history.

Split System
If you select the split system, your air conditioning unit goes right with the furnace in your basement, utility room or attic.

Or, if you should decide on the single, package unit, you have even greater latitude, with basements, attics, or crawl spaces as possible locations. Or, if you have a larger home, it might be better to use two smaller units, one located in the basement to cool the first floor, and one in the attic to cool the upper floor.

Whatever your choice of type and location, officials strongly recommend the assistance of a dealer in arriving at the proper cooling capacity of the unit or units.

'Heat Pump' Can Work Both Ways in Home

Reverses Itself To Provide Warmth Or Easy Coolness

The "heat pump," a versatile piece of machinery that combines cooling in summer and heating in winter, is making its presence felt in new homes around the country.

According to engineers, a heat pump isn't really magic. It just puts to work in reverse the same principles that operate your refrigerator or air conditioner.

Refrigeration systems work by absorbing heat from one space and giving it up into another.

For example, an ordinary air conditioning unit picks up heat from inside your home and then gives it up outside the house. The various components of the system, the evaporator, the compressor, the condenser, and the fan, all work together to make it possible to give up this absorbed heat even when outside temperatures are as high as 120 degrees.

Works in Reverse
When operated as an air conditioner, engineers explain, this is exactly what a heat pump does.

In addition, however, the heat pump also can reverse itself, absorbing heat from outside the home, bringing it inside to do the job of a furnace.

And the amazing thing is that the heat pump can find outdoor heat to bring inside even when outdoor temperatures dip as low as zero.

That's where the name "heat pump" came from—from the ability of the system to pump heat either into or out of your home.

Growing Market
Manufacturers anticipate a growing market for the electrically-operated heat pump, particularly in temperate zones where there are few extremes of heat or cold.

Most firms in the air conditioning and heating equipment field, produce heat pumps for both room and central residential or commercial use.

The room units are similar to ordinary window air conditioners, but with a reverse cycle heating mechanism. Central systems normally utilize electrical resistance heating elements in addition to the reverse-cycle heating to provide greater heating capacity when temperatures fall too low for the unit to heat the house without help.

Wit, Wag, Cur Ruled Out in License Revision

Trenton, N. J. — A new list of taboos by the State Motor Vehicle Bureau makes New Jersey license plates a little more formal.

More than 350 three-letter combinations, including wit, wag, cad, cur, gal and kkk have been ruled out. The animal kingdom, represented by words from ape to zoo, also is on the taboo list.

The new prohibition also bans rye, rum and gin and an assortment of political and or-

One of the Latest Air conditioning advances is this unit with extra capacity for dehumidifying as well as cooling. Engineers developed the dry-cooling system especially for hot, humid areas. It can remove up to three barrels of water from the air each week. The unit also dehumidifies without overcooling on humid days when temperatures are mild.

Standards Established for Air Conditioning Industry

The room air conditioner—defines a room air conditioner, as defined in the standard, is "an encased assembly designed as a unit primarily for mounting in a window, or through a wall, or as a console. These units are designed primarily to provide free delivery of conditioned air to an enclosed space, room or zone. They include a prime source of refrigeration and dehumidification and means for circulating air, and shall carry name plate on which manufacturers will give the unit's total cooling and/or heating capacity per hour as tested and rated under provisions of the standard.

Are You Confused With Claims, Counter Claims, Sizes, Capacities, BTU's, Humidity, Latent Heat, etc. Read the Answers now . . .

AIR CONDITIONING FOR HOMES OR BUSINESS

- 1 — Why do they rate air conditioners by ton and horsepower?
Air conditioner capacity is sized by ton, for instance, which means that a ton air conditioner will remove up to 12,000 BTU's per hour from a room. The amount of heat required to melt one ton of ice in 24 hours. Many so-called one-ton conditioners may have only 8,000 BTU or less capacity, which means the customer is being short-changed. If the air conditioner is being used full capacity, the horsepower rating is the size of unit used to operate the compressor which removes the moisture in the air.
- 2 — What do they mean by BTU?
BTU (British Thermal Unit) is a measure of heat necessary to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit which is used to determine requirements both for heating a home by adding BTU's and for cooling a home or moving BTU's. By taking into consideration the size and location of room, number of windows and doors, height of ceilings, average number of people in room, the quantity of BTU's you should plan to remove for a cool safety margin can be determined.
- 3 — What are the actual benefits of proper air conditioning?
Summer discomfort is mainly caused through excessive moisture in the air (high humidity) and high temperatures. An Air Conditioner is designed to remove this moisture, filter the dust and pollen from the air which relieves hay fever and asthma sufferers, and to cool the area down about 10 to 15 degrees. A business receives these same benefits, plus enhancing the establishment as a place to leisurely shop and relax.
- 4 — Do we need special electrical wiring for an air conditioner?
Uninterrupted electrical power is very important to the proper operation of your air conditioner. There are some units that you can just "plug in" but you cannot be sure that you will have the cooling capacity necessary in extremely hot and humid weather.
- 5 — How can I be sure to get the proper air conditioner that I need?
Your home or business should be measured and rated by your local dealer who is interested, qualified and will be glad to service your needs at any time. We have a thoroughly trained air conditioner installation department which we feel is tops in the air conditioning and refrigeration business. We name all sizes of air conditioners for the home up to the largest commercial buildings. We will be happy to give you free estimates on your needs and offer you any needed easy payment plan.

then wonder why performance is not good )

Keep shades or venetian blinds down and curtains drawn on windows where the sun strikes Glass is an ex- cellent heat conductor and should be shielded And of course, keep sunny windows closed.

Start Soon Start the air conditioner be- fore you need it. It takes longer to cool a room once furniture, rugs and drapes have absorbed heat

Don't switch your air con- ditioner on and off constantly Set the thermostat and let it run at the proper pace On- and-off operation results in a "cool loss" and puts an added strain on your wiring

Read the directions for your model carefully to make sure you are using it properly, taking advantage of all its special features

Keep the area in front of the conditioner clear so that air can circulate freely

Check the controls regularly — children sometimes move them or they are moved in cleaning

Checking Efficiency Vital If, at any time, your air conditioner does not seem to be operating at top efficiency, check all those points plus the following

Is filter clean? It should be cleaned at least once a season or more often in particu- larly dirty atmosphere

Has a circuit fuse blown? Is plug firmly set in the outlet?

Keeping a simple check list like this on hand can assure you that you are getting the best out of your room air conditioner and at a budget price.

Split System of Cooling Starts With Furnace

Your present furnace or the one you'll be installing in that new home, is the best start to year-round air conditioning you can have according to engineers

They point out that very often split system air conditioning can utilize the same ducts used by the furnace as well as the furnace blower fan

The result You may save as much as half the cost of an original installation

Time to plan for that future add on air condition- ing system is right now

Home buyers should check with their local air condition- ing dealer to make sure that warm air ducts in the home they're building or buying are large enough to handle air conditioning later

Start with a good furnace with a well planned duct system With these as a begin- ning, you're half way toward future year-round air condition- ing.

Air Conditioning Ends Old Roman Problem

Packed Walls With Snow to Cool Houses;
More Modern Methods Included Fans, Water

From the beginning of time ance which cools, circulates weather has given man two basic problems: keeping ly the room in which it's in- stalled

Today's room air condition- ers began to appear about 25 years ago Production almost halted during World War II then boomed after 1946 Since then sales have climbed steadily and rapidly as models have become more efficient and more varied

Fit Anywhere Today's air conditioners can be fitted into any window — through the wall—and there are now portable models which cool the room you're in at the moment Styles are slimmer more attractive. Their action is more effective Many large models now oper- ate on standard 115 volts In industry and at home, air

That was perhaps the earli- est room air conditioner—a method that was briefly effec- tive in reducing the tempera- ture, but no help whatsoever with the humidity problem

The American Indians had their own system for air cool- ing They soaked blankets in cool mountain springs and then hung them outside nuts or teepees so the breezes if any would be ice-water cooled.

Fan Language That most basic method of circulating (if not cooling) air the fan goes back through the centuries It was often wield- ed by a slave from Cleopat- ra's day to Scarlet O'Hara's Until well into this century theater owners supplied a hand fan for each patron The fan was so popular that it grew more and more ornate and the romantic Victorians even developed a "language of the fan" to help a coquette carry on a flirtation

Colonial Americans sensibly established summer kitchens to keep cooking heat away from the rest of the house. They also were advocates of the covered porch snacking rooms inside Venetian blinds and shutters go back through the centuries too and are still important in both shading and decoration

The first commercial air conditioners were developed for industry. When it was found that machinery worked poorly when air was over- damp crude devices were in- vented to control humidity

House Becomes Cool Oasis With Air-Conditioning

Most Important Factor Is to Buy Proper Size for Your Purpose

It's a well-known fact that mometer is hitting the top and "dry" heat is easier for most there's an overdose of mois-of us to take than warm hu- ture in the air.

And weather. A combination First of all, there is plant- ing. Did you realize that trees, lawn and shrubbery can do a lot to lower temperature both around and in the house? It's true. For example, a shady lawn will produce a light breeze even in the warmest weather. This is because the shaded air at grass level is cooler and heavier than surrounding air. Nature and what is turned on inside. demands that it shove its way inside. we trust you'll have around to balance the pres- sure. No longer in the luxury duces a priceless breeze. So, these little gems are try to have a grass plot, pretty much of a necessity. shaded by trees, all around your house.

Summer - comfortable protected from the sun and homes depend on two factors thus is cooler and heavier what is going on outside, than surrounding air. Nature and what is turned on inside. demands that it shove its way inside. we trust you'll have around to balance the pres- sure. No longer in the luxury duces a priceless breeze. So, these little gems are try to have a grass plot, pretty much of a necessity. shaded by trees, all around your house.

There are actually several. Actually the temperature of the air you can do to control a shaded grass plot can be 5 degrees lower than the temperature outside your twenty-five degrees lower than a nearby stretch of asphalt. And - speaking of asphalt—do you have a drive- way right next to your house? Asphalt is a fine "heat hold- er." It soaks up heat, reflects it right back at you, and re- leases it all during the should- be-cool evening hours. This is fine in cooler weather, but a coating of gravel can make a big difference in summer.

Walls and windows are the only bars to the entry of heat into your home. If your home is well insulated, a minimum of heat will come in through the walls, just as a minimum will go out in the winter. But glass just lets heat race through. If you can, close all the windows at sundown and "hose" your house. This will cool down walls and windows outside and inside. During the day, keep windows closed in sunny areas. More than that—keep the venetian blinds down and-or curtains drawn.

So much for the outside. Indoors, an air conditioner is the modern answer to "beat- ing the heat." You can beat it before it starts if you plan ahead and get yours installed now. The things you do out- side will serve to help your air conditioner by putting less of a burden on it. It will accom- plish more in less time if out- side conditions are favorable. And today's air conditioners adapt themselves — thermos- tatically—to room tempera- tures, just as furnaces and oil burners do.

Check Size
The vital thing in selecting an air conditioner is to get the right size for your purpose. The formula is to measure the wall space in the area to be cooled, indicate the direction outside walls face and figure size of windows. With this in- formation, a reliable dealer can make a practical and eco- nomical recommendation.

Some families air condition their entire homes with the simultaneous installation of a number of room air condition- ers. Other families start with one room air conditioner—perhaps in living room or a bedroom. The next year they add another—and then another. This is comfort that de- serves spreading around. And, of course, with a room air conditioner, you do not pay for cooling rooms not in use. You can cool living room and kitchen during the day, bed- rooms at night.

To get back to that old bugaboo, humidity. It won't enter your home, no matter how melting the outside weather, if you have a modern room air conditioner. All of them dehumidify. Your cool, fresh air will be dry. Dry—

Where to Install It is the easiest question of all to answer when it comes to the purchase of home air conditioning. Major manufacturers make summer cooling coils (upper left) which attach easily to your present warm air furnace, whether it's located in your basement (upper right), utility room (lower left) or attic (lower right). The unit located outside the house in this "split" system is the compressor condenser. Central residential air conditioning also is available in single unit "packaged" systems.

Cooling System Fits Into a Room Scheme

Air Conditioners Add Beauty to Modern Home Furnishings

It's true that everything that adds to the comfort of a room adds to its basic beauty—especially to its regular inhabitants. Beyond that, every furnishing should be as attractive in itself as possible, and should blend into the decor- ating scheme. Your air con- ditioner is no exception.

Today, these accessories are handsome as well as com- fortable. Their "jut-out" — both in- side the room and outside the window — has been sharply re- duced. Their facing sur- faces have become attractive, often decorated, grilles.

Fits All Periods
They are utilitarian but also smartly designed and unob- trusive. Many modern condi- tioners can even be installed through the wall under the window if that fits your decor- ating plan; and there are models which permit the open- ing and closing of windows. If your decorating scheme is modern or contemporary, your air conditioner can actually compliment the decor. In per- iod rooms, a few simple adap- tations will not only maintain the mood, but also assure you of the cool comfort you want.

Here are some suggestions: Draw drapes on a semi-circular traverse rod around the air conditioner. Or hand- some Venetian blinds can surround it or be arranged so that one section will cover it when it is not in use. These two arrangements have an additional advantage: they keep out temperature-increas- ing sunlight which puts an extra burden on your air con- ditioner — when you do turn it on.

If your air conditioner is in- stalled in the wall, a sliding panel can hide it in cold weather.

Japanese Screens
A hand- some Japanese screen is a happy solution, since it adds interest and beauty to any room. And many of the air conditioners, under-window window — has been sharply re- duced. Their facing sur- faces have become attractive, often decorated, grilles.

It's probable that your air conditioner will be such a joy only in the cold months — and not even then if yours is the type that becomes a heater in winter. Never let anything block the flow of air from your conditioner while it is running.

Consult Dealer When Buying Air Conditioner

He Can Determine Needs More Easily Than Homeowner; Offers Wide Selection

Today, or tomorrow at the latest, is the best time to con- sider your summer air condi- tioning requirements, accord- ing to the room air conditioner section of the National Elec- trical Manufacturers associa- tion.

These gentlemen point out that you should plan in ad- vance what you will want and need, then work out the proper selection of an air condi- tioner with your dealer. Order while he has time to install it promptly (if installation help is needed), plus a full stock for you to choose from.

Window Model
The matter of selecting the best model is not difficult, but your dealer will need certain information from you. First, of course, you must decide on where your air conditioner is to go. (Most people first air condition the living room or a bedroom, gradually add others.) Possibly you may want a portable. If you do decide on a window model, here are the steps:

Measure the floor area. Note the direction the outside walls are quiet in operation and they and windows face. That's all keep out street noise.

Businesses Need It

Commercial Conditioning Season Now Lasts Entire Year-Around

If it has been as long as ten years since you had a haircut, when they're comfortable. went to a doctor's office, bought bread from a baker or meat from a butcher, or ran any one of other hundreds of planned routine errands, then you probably haven't noticed that the store or shop without air conditioning is a rarity today. There's a simple reason why so many businesses are air conditioned: Customers new stores, all add up to an air conditioning problem twelve months of the year," he said.

Areas in South
Anderson cited areas of the south as particularly in need of year-round air conditioning because of consistently high outdoor temperatures.

"But just think of the winter situation in the north," he said, "where shoppers enter stores all bundled up in coats, hats and mufflers. If the stores weren't air conditioned, the temperature and humidity would both soon be up at summer levels."

The growing year-around market for commercial air conditioning has exerted great influence in stabilizing the formerly seasonal sales of major manufacturers.

"The requirements for com- mercial air conditioning vary greatly," Anderson pointed out, "so there are literally hundreds of units of different sizes, types and shapes to insure businesses a system de- signed specifically to meet their individual needs."

Some of the units are air cooled, others water cooled; some are designed as single packages, others as split sys- tems; and sizes of individual units vary to meet the require- ments of the smallest office or largest supermarket.

Work With Store
"We work with a store to de- termine whether water or air- cooled would work better," Anderson explained.

"Then we plan where the units should be located, or wheth- er two or more smaller units might not be better than a single large one. In fact, the planning is just as it would be for a home instal- lation, except that there are more factors to be considered

Girl on Church Outing Killed

Asheville, N.C. —P— Two girls on a church assembly outing fell 50 feet over a wa- terfall near here Saturday. One was killed and the other injured seriously.

The two girls, members of a party of 10 from the Ridge- crest Baptist Assembly, hiked to the Upper Catawba falls in McDowell county.

Members of the party said the two reached the top of the falls first. One girl ap- parently slipped and when the other attempted to grab her, both went over.

Barbara Butler, Saluda, S. C., high school student, died about four hours after she was brought out of the west- ern North Carolina country by jeep.

Add History Teacher to AHS Faculty

New Woodworking, Drawing Course Also Approved

A new high school woodworking and drawing course and a new American history teacher at the high school were approved by the board of education Monday night.

The additional history teacher will be required because the school has scheduled six more sections of history than were taught this year. H. H. Heible, principal, reported.

At the last meeting, the board approved adding another English teacher to the faculty to deal especially with composition.

The woodworking and drawing course will be added to the present industrial arts program at the high school. Funds for both of the requests will be taken from the $19,000 additional state aid received unexpectedly from the state department of public instruction, Supt. of Schools John P. Mann said.

Mann told the board that he had hired five teachers, replacing teachers who have left the system. The new teachers are Robert Bergman, part-time French; Mrs. Kim Hoang Miller, French; Jess Will, industrial arts; Mrs. Margo Koehnke, elementary, and Mrs. Ellen Reimer, elementary.

The board deferred a request that the city school system participate in a Lakeshore Curriculum study to cost the city $300. The board already is considering another request to participate in a state-wide study, administered by the University of Wisconsin.

Mann reported a total of 991 students not living in Appleton attend public and parochial schools here. Catholic schools have 362 outside pupils; Lutheran, 367; and public, 262.

He also reported Frank Comella, director of school instrumental music, has received 300 new requests for instrument lessons. Mann said he told Comella to offer lessons to the number of students it is possible to teach with existing facilities.

Mann said he has received clearance from the North Central Accrediting association to offer algebra to high IQ eighth graders.

Display Colors For Flag Week, Mitchell Asks

Mayor Clarence Mitchell has proclaimed this week Flag week and asked all Appleton residents to display flags for the entire week.

The theme of the week is "Show off your colors for Flag day."

Flag week will be climaxed by the flag day parade at 2 p. m. Saturday. It will feature 70 units and floats.

Attorney Challenges Membership in Bar To Practice Law

Madison — A Madison attorney filed suit in Dane county circuit court today challenging constitutionality of the State Bar and demanding recovery of $15 he paid in dues to join the organization.

Trayton L. Lathrop, member of a prominent law firm, filed the action, asking judgment against Joseph D. Donohue, Fond du Lac, treasurer of the bar.

Lathrop said the requirement that lawyers must join the bar to practice violated federal and state constitutions.

He claimed the bar takes in about $90,000 a year, of which $80,000 is from dues, and uses a major portion of it for activities which are of a political and propaganda nature.

Board Agrees To Combine Defense Jobs

Executive Committee To Work Out Plan For Full-Time Post

Appleton and Outagamie county's civil defense program will be directed by a full-time coordinator, the county board of supervisors decided today in authorizing its executive committee to work out a plan for combining the previously separate offices.

The board's action sets no timetable for creating the new position.

Some agreement will have to be reached, the resolution points out, on the respective share of salary for each municipality. There was no indication how much a full-time coordinator should be paid.

County Coordinator Andrew J. Schultz currently is paid $300 per month. Robert Beltrone, former Appleton director, received $75 a month plus $40 for a secretary—a position his wife filled.

Need for realizing the county civil defense organization came about because of the failure of Schultz and Beltrone to work together effectively. The two have been feuding for more than a year, with charges and counter charges being hurled at each other.

Beltrone was named Schultz's assistant last November but the arrangement failed to work.

School Board Requests Two More Sites

Wants North, Southeast Lots For Expansion

Two more school sites were recommended by the board of education to the city council Monday night.

One is for a junior high school on the north side, a 20-acre site in the town of Grand Chute bounded by E. Capitol drive (formerly Third avenue), N. Morrison street and E. Florida drive (formerly Second avenue). The seven children of Mr. and Mrs. Elvy C. Lillge own the property.

The other is for an elementary school on the southeast side. Whitman farm bordering on the south edge of the Schaefer plat, as near as possible to Clara street, extending east in the town of Buchanan.

By 1962 The board says it will need the junior high school by the fall of 1962.

"For reasons of economy, convenience to students and optimum education efforts," the board asked for a new building rather than to add to an old building on "inadequate sites." There has been talk on the city council of building additions to present junior high schools.

The land for the southeast elementary school is needed now, the board claimed, because the new College avenue bridge may bring increased growth to the southeast sector of the city, now served by Richmond school, which is as large as the board says it can be.

The purchase "can only result in economics to the city," the board said.

A request by Ald Robert J. Stumpf to vacate Hanson court from Harding drive to the south boundary of James Madison Junior High school's playing fields was approved by the board of education Monday night.

Because the school system is a property owner along the land, its consent must be received before the strip can be vacated.

Homes will not be constructed along the street, William R. Knuth, director of business affairs, said. A 10-foot fence is being constructed to separate the school property from the present street, which will be turned into lawn, if the city council agrees.

The opening session will begin at 10 a. m. at the Manitowish Vocational school.

A. W. Moley, Washington, D. C., director of labor standards, will address the delegates at the 6 p. m. banquet at the Manitowish Armory building. He will speak on "Manpower in Industry."

Approximately 300 safety experts, government and industry officials, supervisors and foremen, are expected at the 1-day safety conference.

Youth Offers Novel Excuse for Speeding

An 18-year-old Appleton youth offered a novel excuse for speeding when he appeared in municipal court today.

Soviet Official Asks To Meet With Ike During Tour of U. S.

First Deputy Frol Kozlov Seeks To Put Formal Label on Journey

Washington — Russia's first deputy premier Frol Kozlov has asked to meet with President Eisenhower and other top administration leaders during a 10-day visit to the United States.

Kozlov is expected to grant his wish with a request to undertake a coast-to-coast tour of some half-dozen American cities in early July.

The 51-year-old Kozlov, a fast-rising newcomer in the Kremlin hierarchy, is due to arrive in New York June 25, ostensibly to open the Soviet national exhibition in the New York coliseum.

The Soviet government appears to be making his visit a formal one, a tit-for-tat exchange for one Vice President Richard M. Nixon is to make a similar trip to the United States last January by Deputy

Many Republicans in the legislature, including some of those in control of the senate, prefer a sales tax to other alternatives.

One of the reasons for the resistance to income tax withholding legislation is the supposition of some sales tax advocates that withholding will make income tax boosts easier to obtain, and thus defer serious consideration of other tax possibilities, including the sales tax.

As an example of the problem that a permanent tax study commission could handle, the governor mentioned the personal property tax, per-

Officials said the fire was still burning nearly four hours later but it was confined to the basement of the affected unit.

Nelson Asks State Medical Plan Controls

Would Require Blue Cross Agents To Be Licensed

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The Democratic state administration today asked for limited state supervision of the big prepaid medical and hospital care plans, including Blue Cross, Blue Shield and Surgical Care.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson is sending to the legislature bills to require agents of such plans to be licensed by the state, to give the state insurance department power to examine their practices and affairs and to give the insurance commissioner authority to establish minimum standards for contract by administrative rule.

The giant plans now have at least 1,100,000 Wisconsin persons covered.

Avoids Clashes

The proposals will have the effect, and may have the intent, of avoiding a bitter clash on the floor of the legislature between the hospitals sponthe state attorneys general and the American Bar association. Moves were started in congress to try curtailing the court's power.

In its latest decisions, the court said that part of the earlier rulings had been misinterpreted.

Justices Clark, Frankfurter, Harlan, Whittaker and Stewart made up the majority in both of yesterday's decisions. Dissenting were Chief Justice Warren and Justices Douglas, Black and Brennan.

States Not Helpless

In the Uphaus case, Clark, speaking for the majority, said that its Nelson case did not "strip the states of the right to protect themselves." In that case the court had thrown out the conviction of communist leader Steve Nelson under the Pennsylvania sedition act.

Uphaus of New Haven, Conn., had refused to give information about the New Hampshire World Fellowship Center to Atty. Gen. Louis Wyman, who requested it under a legislative resolution giving him power to investigate subversive activities.

Clark said that the court, in the Nelson case, had ruled that the Smith act superseded the Pennsylvania law because they prohibited the same thing: "Knowing advocacy of the overthrow of the government of the United States by force and violence."

"All the opinion proscribed," Clark continued, "was a soring Blue Cross and the physicians in the other plan Blue Cross is backing bills to drive the doctors out of the prepaid health insurance field.

The governor said his proposals are reasonable, because they suggest the same regulations now applied to the commercial carriers in the health and accident fields.

He said he is not proposing state control of the rates of the non-profit insurance plans, adding that this would be "almost impossible because of the different kinds of group coverage and because rates are based on varying hospital and medical costs."

Nelson's bill follows out the main line of a report recently published by Paul Rogan, the departing Republican state insurance commissioner. The governor noted that the non-profit prepaid plans now represent a $40 million annual business in Wisconsin and have become a major factor in providing medical and hospital care. A business of that size requires some public supervision for consumer protection, he said.

race between federal and state prosecutors to the courthouse door.

"The opinion made clear that a state could proceed with prosecutions for sedition against the state itself."

In a dissent, Brennan said the freedoms of speech and assembly were involved in the case and the state had not shown that its interest in getting the information from Uphaus was sufficient to outweigh these freedoms.

In the Barenblatt case, the court said that the house committee acted within the scope of its authority when it questioned Barenblatt about membership in the communist party.

Barenblatt had refused to answer the committee's questions. He said the resolution setting up the committee was too vague and that the committee had no right under the first amendment to investigate his activities or associations.

Conviction Thrown Out

When the court threw out the contempt conviction of John T. Watkins for refusing to answer questions before the committee, its decision had been interpreted widely as holding that the resolution setting up the committee was too vague.

Justice Harlan said yesterday the court had reversed the Watkins conviction because Watkins "had not been adequately apprised of the subject matter of the subcommittee's investigation or the pertinency thereto of the questions he refused to answer."

On the contention that Barenblatt's rights under the first amendment had been violated, Harlan said:

"We conclude that the balance between individual and government interests here at stake must be struck in favor of the latter, and therefore the provisions of the first amendment have not been offended."

In a dissent, Justice Black said the decision "marks another major step in the progressively increasing retreat from the safeguards of the first amendment."

Gold Rush on For TV Gunmen

Western Stars Head For State Fair, Rodeo Appearances

BY BOB THOMAS
Hollywood — P— The gold rush is on, with TV's gun-slingers heading the cry, "Go east, young man!"

This is the season for the western stars to fill their pouches with loot from the hinterlands. They're heading east not by pony but by jet, to display themselves before admiring throngs at fairs, rodeos and whatever.

They sing a little, ride a little, tell jokes, rope and twirl their 6-shooters. But mostly they just appear, smiling and signing autographs and basking in the popularity that television has brought them.

Various Bookings

Figures released by the New Mexico state fair commission give evidence of the money to be had. Gene Barry (Bat Masterson) has been set for two appearances in one day at the September fair for $2,000; Dale Robertson (Wells Fargo) for six appearances in three days at $7,500. The Gunsmoke trio — Dennis Weaver, Amanda Blake, Milburn Stone — will come in for six appearances at $8,500.

Robert Horton (Wagon Train) is making hay this summer with such dates as the Cincinnati rodeo, Tulsa horse show, as well as playing "Picnic" in Detroit and "Guys and Dolls" in Warren, Ohio. Chuck Connors and young Johnny Crawford (The Rifleman) were booked for the St. Louis police circus and Omaha rodeo.

Robert Culp (Trackdown) expects to earn $70,000 this year from personals, probably as much as he gets from the series. Among his dates: Lincoln, Neb., centennial, Salina and Coffeyville, Kan., rodeos, Jack Kelly (Maverick) just returned from the Washington, D.C., home show, and Guy Williams (Zorro) dueling his way across the Midwest for three weeks. Hugh O'Brian has gone from a Winnipeg rodeo to playing "The Rainmaker" in Chicago.

Camp Cancelled When Violence Threatened If Negroes Included

Leesburg, Fla. — P— There will be no summer camps at Weekiwachee for some 100 Presbyterian boys because of threats of violence if Negroes were included, a church leader has announced.

The Rev. Terrell K. Kirk, pastor of the Leesburg Presbyterian church and camp director, said the threats came from persons in Hernando county, where the camps are located.

One camp was to operate for white children with the other open to "qualified boys 11 to 14 from any of our churches," said Kirk.

"No individuals were specifically threatened," Kirk said, "but members received word of the threats through residents of the Brooksville area" in Hernando county, on the Gulf of Mexico north of Tampa.

The presbytery is St. Johns, one of five in Florida. It includes churches of the Sebring, Sanford, DeLand, Daytona Beach and Orlando areas.

One Orlando member is the Washington Snorens church, a Negro church.

CBS Network Offers 6 TV Writer Awards

Thousands Apply For Grants-in-Aid, Each Worth $5,000

BY CHARLES MERCER

New York — P— In a couple of weeks CBS television network will announce the recipients of five television writing grants-in-aid of $5,000 each.

There have been thousands of applicants, including professional writers and many who have not yet published anything.

Louis G. Cowan, president of CBS-TV, who initiated the plan which will continue for at least three years, says the program represents "a slight effort to improve the over-all quality of writing for television."

Better TV Writing
Each who receives a grant for the year beginning July 1 will be assigned to a CBS-TV network producer with whom he will confer on his writing project and problems.

Cowan emphasizes that this is not some kind of CBS talent hunt. Rather, he and others in the network wish to contribute to the general cause of better TV writing.

Cowan is interested and active in the field of the printed word as well as broadcasting. He points out that publishing now offers more inducements to new writers than television does. There are numerous "little magazines" which annually publish the first works of scores of writers. Various universities and endowed institutions offer grants-in-aid and fellowships to writers who want to do specific work.

"Television needs more good writers," Cowan says, "and this is one way to find and encourage them."

have never driven before.

After the classroom sessions, students go out to a dual-control car for actual driving. After the course is completed, students take a test by the state driver's license examiner.

Want to Learn to Drive? AVS Course Is for You

A special course at the Appleton Vocational school has taken automobile driving off the road and into the classroom.

In its second year, the driving course combines classroom knowledge and supervised driving. Registrations still are open for some of the summer dates. Director Carl Bertram said, "Last year, 23 men and 159 women took advantage of the instructions, offered to anyone over 16."

Vocational school instructors Francis Ankerson, Milton Ness and Roger Wege, Bertram said, are qualified last year and this year. They are trained and certified.

Course Requested
"A lot of people said they wanted to learn to drive. Also, we had a request from a city traffic safety group, wondering whether we could do something to train people."

Several things, he said, make it advantageous for high school students to take the course. They may already have taken the necessary classroom instruction at school. Students completing the seven 2-hour sessions of classroom instruction and six hours of behind-the-wheel training get a 15 per cent reduction in insurance premium.

Interest Needed
"We'll continue the course as long as there is an interest. Some older people enrolled last year and this year. They had just about given up any idea of driving. Many of them were women who had to drive to work."

Bertram said he was impressed by the courage of some people who take the test by the state driver's license examiner.

RAMBLER

HERE'S WHY:
"Rambler is a well-made, efficiently designed, comfortable car with outstanding structural strength and rigidity, smooth, quiet economical operation, outstanding maneuverability in traffic and parking, satisfactory roadability, ride and handling, competitive performance, good operating economy and very significantly low ownership costs—in short, it's our choice for overall best buy among U.S. cars."

COST
"First of all, it has a lower initial price, and on the basis of current figures will retain a greater percentage of its original cost than any other car anywhere near its price."

STYLING
"The Rambler has developed in just three years into one of the most attractive cars on the road."

BODY DESIGN AND CONSTRUCTION
"Most evident is the solidity of the unit-construction body. On the road there is never a trace of annoying body shake or vibration. Rambler's unit-construction body gives a sound, quiet, vibrationless feeling normally associated with the largest, heaviest and most expensive cars. A hidden plus... the entire unit, body and frame structure is dipped in a tank of rust-proofing chromate primer, a virtual guarantee against the rusting out of inaccessible panel surfaces."

INTERIOR
"Rambler is an extremely comfortable car for all six passengers because the centers of both front and rear seats are not crammed down close to the transmission housing and driveshaft tunnel."

HANDLING AND ROADABILITY
"Rambler proves amazingly responsive and maneuverable at moderate speeds."

QUALITY
"Rambler gets high marks in quality of manufacture."

Neenah Lengthens School Day 30 Minutes

Board Approves Starting Elementary Classes Earlier, Adjusts Boundaries

Neenah — Lengthening the school day for grade school pupils by a half hour was approved by the board of education Monday. Action was taken after a survey of other schools as to the length of the school day.

Starting in the fall, all grade school classes from kindergarten through sixth grade will begin at 8:30 a. m. Kindergarten classes will be dismissed at 11 a. m., first and second grades at 11:30 a. m. and the third through sixth grades at 11:45 a. m.

Classes will resume at 1:15 p. m. as at present. Dismissal times will be at 3:45 p. m. for kindergarten, 3:30 p. m. for first and second graders and 3:45 p. m. for the third through sixth grades.

Classes this past year began at 9 a. m.

The board also approved several adjustments in allocating pupils to certain schools to equalize the pupil-teacher ratio.

Parents of children affected will be notified by letter of the changes.

Aldermen Review Police Station Bids

Neenah — Council members and the architects have been reviewing the specifications and bids for the new police station to see if any savings can be effected to bring the price closer to the $200,000 figure approved in a bond issue referendum.

The committee on public works reviewed the various bids and recommendations Monday night but has not completed its study.

Remodeling Permit Given for School Job

Menasha — A remodeling permit was granted today to P. G. Miron Construction company, Appleton, for work on Menasha's Butte des Morts school.

The $38,000 permit covers conversion of the grade school into a junior high unit. Completion will be before the fall 30 years, moving here from term opens with the building to be used for elementary purposes until the new Sixth street school is finished.

Twin City Job Picture Shows Upward Trend

Gain in Summer To be Less Than In Previous Years

Neenah — The upward trend in employment evident since the first of the year continued at a moderate but slightly accelerated pace during the last two months. A. P. Engbreitson, district manager of the state employment service office, reported today.

A moderate gain was reported by all segments of industry reporting its labor market information to the employment office, with the largest gain in the construction industry.

Manufacturing also showed a slow upward trend, he said as he listed employment at mid-May for the 43 firms reporting information at 11,542, as compared with 11,307 for the same period last year.

Gain Expected

Following the usual seasonal pattern, a fairly substantial gain of 254 workers is anticipated by mid-July; he wrote in his bi-monthly labor market letter. This, however, will be far below the 408 gain actually reported in 1958 and the 478 gain shown during this period in 1957.

The lower-than-usual estimated gain by mid-July is largely accounted for by predicted needs in paper manufacturing firms. These establishments expect to add only 178 workers, as compared with 313 last year.

Engbreitson indicated that unless a marked upturn in the paper industry develops, employment opportunities for high school graduates seeking permanent work and students seeking summer jobs will be strictly limited.

Office Hours Set By City Inspector

Menasha — Office hours of Allen E. Merrill, Menasha's new plumbing, heating and building supervisor, will be 7:30 to 8:30 a. m. and 1 to 2 p. m. daily. During that time, he will be available for issuance of permits required by city ordinance on building-related projects.

During the remainder of the time, he said, he expects to be at construction sites on inspections.

'Pushed For Space'

We still are being pushed for space, Supt. Mennes indicated, pointing out that 11 high school rooms will be used 100 per cent of the day, leaving no place for the teacher to prepare during the period when he has no class to teach.

He mentioned that Lennard Krause, high school chemistry and physics teacher, wondered about having 14 years of chemistry and 14 years of physics rather than a year of each and one year of advanced science.

Wilcox urged an early education on the advanced chemistry

Personal or Family Mail Box Made From Shoe Carton

BY CAPPY DICK

A private mail box for members of your family can be a lot of fun. It's easy to prepare. You and the family make use of it each day by leaving surprises in the box for each other.

Here's how to make one: Get a shoe box. Cut a wide slit in the top of it. Paste green paper on the box to make it look like a mail box. Place it in a certain room of your house, perhaps near the front door.

Tell every member of your family that each morning and each evening one is to go to the mail box and drop a letter into it for somebody else in the house and also remove from it any letters awaiting them there.

All kinds of exciting things can be placed in the box. Pictures can be clipped out of there, magazines and enclosed in envelopes, with messages and greeting cards can be left written on the pictures in the box. ## Tigers Win, Jump Above .500 Mark

Dykes' Sizzling Crew Stops Boston, 6-3, Behind Bunning

By The Associated Press

Okay, so the Detroit Tigers have been hot since Jimmy Dykes took over as manager a little more than five weeks ago. That you know. But how hot is hot?

Call it terrific. Call it scorching. Better yet, call it tops. For if you can compute American league standings on performance since May 3, the day Dykes took charge, the Tigers would be leading the league by a whopping six games.

When Dykes relieved Bill Norman the Tigers were last, 10 1/2 games behind Cleveland. They had a 2-15 record.

24-10 Record

Now they are only 2 1/2 games shy of first place, have a 24-10 record (.706) under Dykes, have taken command of fourth place, are over .500 for the first time this season and have won 12 of their last 15 games after winning their fourth in a row, 6-3, Monday night at Boston.

It was the only game scheduled in the AL and broke a fourth-place deadlock with Kansas City while moving the Tigers within a game of Cleveland's third-place Indians.

The Tigers, after a brief, 6-2 home stand, opened a 16-game eastern trip behind the 6-hit pitching of Jim Bunning and Al Kaline's three runs batted in.

Bunning 6-4, who has picked up all his victories in seven decisions since Dykes took over, blew a 3-run lead when the last place Red Sox paired half their hits with their only walk for all their runs in the fifth inning. A 2-run double by Don Buddin broke Bunning's shutout with two out, and Pete Runnels single scored Buddin.

Break the Tie

The Tigers, who opened a 3-0 lead on Kaline's 2-run single in the top of the fifth, broke the tie in the sixth against losing reliever Bill Kanders.

Bolt Exudes Confidence on Way To Practice Round for U. S. Open

Classic Starts Thursday

BY HUGH FULLERTON JR. don't worry. You waste a shot getting out of the rough; you don't try to lay the next one up on the green.

A reporter suggested: "That's the way you were thinking at Tulsa last year, wasn't it Tommy?"

Bolt assented.

Pick Yourself

Then came the inevitable question: "Why don't you pick yourself to win?"

"Not me," said Bolt, mustering a wry grin. "Some people think I'm too cocky any way without picking myself to win. Besides the odds are 20-1 against any one player."

Regardless of his opinion, Bolt is a player whose chances can't be discounted in figuring a possible winner of the 59th Open championship, starting Thursday on the 6,873-yard, par 35-35-70 west course of the Winged Foot club.

Bolt, a golfer whose reputation was built around his fiery temper and club-throwing antics, pronounced himself a changed man before last year's championship. He is still talking about calmness and self-control.

Not Impressive

Tommy's record since last year's victory hasn't been impressive, but he explained: "I haven't been playing too much tournament golf. I've been playing exhibitions and making a lot of appearances in stores and such places."

"But win or lose here, I'm going to play a lot from now on."

While Bolt has been comparatively inactive, a lot of his challengers have been quite busy preparing for the 1959 Open.

Ben Hogan, seeking an unparalleled fifth Open title, has practiced assiduously and has scored impressively at Winged Foot. Mike Souchak, a former assistant to Claude Harmon at this club, has fired several practice rounds in the 60s.

Bucs Tip Giants in 11th, Tie for Third

Bright's Pinch Home Run Gives Elroy Face His 8th Victory

By The Associated Press

Monday night by collaring the slugging San Francisco Giants in a 12-9 Pirate success decided by Harry Bright's 3-run, 2-out pinch homer in the eleventh inning. (Bright once played and managed in the Class D Wisconsin State league)

That ended the Bucs' skid at four games and pushed them into a 3-way tie for third place with the Chicago Cubs and Los Angeles.

The Cubs were beaten in the only other game scheduled, losing, 9-5, at Milwaukee as the first place Braves regained a 3-game edge over the second place Giants.

Burgess Hurt

Face blanked the Giants on three hits in his three innings of relief, walked none and fanned one after the Pirates caught the Giants with a 5-year-old former Dodger farm hand has won eight, saved for a 1.03 ERA in 35 1-3 innings.

He got that eighth victory

When you start talking about relief aces in the National league, let's face it, Elroy Face is your man.

The stubby right-hander has been Pittsburgh's right-hand man in the Pirates' climb from obscurity. He has not been beaten in more than a year, figuring in 34 victories since he last was a loser, on May 30 of last year.

In that time, Face has won 13 and saved 21 with a 1.51 earned run average, allowing just 17 runs in 100 2-3 innings.

After Memorial day 1958—when he was beaten, 7-4, by Milwaukee-Face won five, saved 17 last season as the Bucs ran off their startling surge from a tie for last in 1957 to second place.

So far this season, the 31-year-old former Dodger farm hand has won eight, saved for a 1.03 ERA in 35 1-3 innings.

He got that eighth victory

LADIES DAY

The Pirates also got a solo first home run from catcher Danny Kravitz, who came on after "Smoky" Burgess was struck a glancing blow on the head on Giant shortstop Andre Rodgers' throw to first base in the first inning. Felipe Alou and Willie Kirkland homered for the Giants.

Willie Mays, who dropped 21 points to 321 over the weekend, was benched by Giant Manager Bill Rigney for a "little rest" that ended when Willie singled as a pinch-hitter in a 3-run eighth. Mays was 2-for-2, but bruised his side while sliding and switched from his normal center field post to left field.

The Demons, who lost two of three games at Lincoln last weekend, moved back to within half a game of first place by beating the Chiefs, 7-4.

Des Moines' largest crowd since opening day, 1,624, was on hand.

Elsewhere, four unearned runs helped Green Bay squeeze past Burlington, 6-5; home runs by Gordon Taylor and Alex George sparked Sioux City to a 10-6 victory over Topeka, and Cedar Rapids nipped Fox Cities, 4-3.

Des Moines went ahead of Lincoln by 3-2 in the second inning on a walk and doubles by Al Kenders and Bill McGuckin. The Demons never trailed after that. Lincoln's Jim Wasson had a triple and a double.

Green Bay moved within two games of the league crest on a 13-single attack at Burlington. The Bees' Ken Lindley bashed a 2-run homer.

Sioux City's George had a double and a single to go with his homer and pitcher Jack Bristol also had three hits. Al Alvarez connected for a 2-run round-tripper for Topeka.

Frick Approves Second All-Star Tilt Aug. 3

TV Sponsor Lined Up

New York — Details of the second major league All-Star baseball game this year will be worked out today when Warren Giles and Joe Cronin, presidents of the National and American leagues, respectively, meet with Commissioner Ford C. Frick.

The game, to be played Aug. 3 in the Los Angeles coliseum, was approved unanimously Monday at a meeting with Frick attended by members of the pension committee and major league player representatives.

Frick said it will be possible to play the game without interrupting the regular schedule, thanks to plane travel. Pressed as to whether the same teams would compete in both games he said that would be disclosed after the meeting. It was assumed the teams would be the same.

Frick said he already had completed negotiations for radio and television rights for the second game. The agreement, with the same sponsor, calls for $250,000, the same sum as for the first game. The regularly scheduled game will be played in Pittsburgh July 7.

This Year Only

The second game is scheduled for this year only, and Frick said if it is successful, consideration then will be given to continuing it through 1960 and 1961.

Receipts of the second game will be split on the same basis as prevails for the first game

Exams Reveal Rathmann's Back Broken

Milwaukee Mishap Puts Race Driver In Cast for Month

Milwaukee—A race driver Jim Rathmann of Miami, Fla., was an unhappy man today—and literally flat on his back at the same time.

Physicians told him he suffered a broken back in a practice warmup run for a 100-mile auto race at State Fair park on Sunday when his car landed atop one driven by Edward Amick of Muncie, Ind.

Rathmann was right at Amick's rear when Amick's car slipped into a spin on a turn. Amick hit the wall and Rathmann followed him in. Then Rathmann's car climbed right on top of Amick's. Amick was not injured.

Ankle Hurt
Dr. Carl Dunst, the track physician, examined Rathmann right after the accident and ordered him to a hospital where he complained of a pain in his back. Rathmann returned to the track after X-rays were taken and told his colleagues his ankles hurt but that otherwise he seemed to be all right.

Dr. Dunst said he did not know Rathmann had left the hospital until he heard an announcement on the public address system and that by the time he reached him Rathmann had collapsed.

The injury Rathmann received in the accident was described by Dr. Dunst as not too serious though Rathmann will be in a cast for one month and out of competition for two. Dr. Dunst said the two small wings on the second and third vertebrae were broken.

Rathmann, who finished second in the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial day, never got into the 100-mile event, won by Johnny Thomson of Boyertown, Pa.

Washington Senators tops the American league with 19.

Mathews is even with the pace set by Babe Ruth when he hit 60 in 1927.

Mathews started the fifth by walking and Hank Aaron reached first on an error. Then Joe Adcock, Del Crandall and Andy Pafko followed with singles, each good for runs. Billy Bruton singled to fill the bases and Burdette slammed a double down the left field line. Walks to "Casey" Wise and Mathews and a single by Aaron completed the scoring.

Sunday's Results:
Bonduel 7, Nichols 5.
Black Creek 5, Navarino 4 (16 innings).

Co-leading Hofa Park and Nichols, which shares third place, meet next Sunday in the feature game of the Dairyland Baseball league schedule.

Co-leading Bonduel welcomes fifth place Navarino. Bonduel knocked Nichols out of a share of the top spot Sunday with a 7-5 decision at Bonduel. Left-hander Jerry Marohl went all the way for the victors, allowing eight hits, striking out 13 and walking two. Right-hander Joe Buss, the loser, gave up nine hits over the 9-inning route.

Buss Hot
Buss swatted a homer, a double, and two singles for Nichols. Delano Wudike slapped a triple and three singles for the victors while teammate John Richter rapped a pair of doubles.

Hofa Park drubbed hapless Landstad, 16-3. Gene Krahn again went the route for the victors. Landstad used three pitchers—Earl Richter, Don Jeske and Bob Radtke. Bob Naparilla homered for Hofa Park.

Black Creek nipped Navarino, 5-4, in 14 innings. Left-hander Ludwig got the win going all the way despite the heat, and allowing nine hits. Loser Harvey Pues also went the distance, giving up eight hits.

Jack Herb drove in all four runs for Black Creek with a pair of home runs. A homer by catcher Maueg won the game in the fourteenth.

North Shore's McGuire Fires 32; Three Shoot 74s at BDM

Menasha North Shore's Bill McGuire shot a sizzling 3-under-par 32 on the back nine holes Sunday afternoon to highlight weekend shotmaking at the course.

Harvey Lhost, Don Jabas and Don Strutz shared honors for the weekend golfing low at Butte des Morts—with identical cards of 74.

Right behind at 75 were Jim McDonald and Bob Ferrel (who also shot a 76). Other 76 shooters were John Hayes and Otto Lieber (who also carded a 79).

Other 80-breakers were John Lindberg, 77; Dan Steinberg, Jr., 78; and Irv Ferrel, Ed Adam, Norb Verbrick, L. J. "Bud" Harp, Bill Lawlor and Noel Ansonge, all 79s.

Couldn't Beat Dow
None of BDM's 31 entries in National golf day competition was able to beat Dow Finsterwald's hot, sub-par standard of 67. The closest were Frans Larson, with a 68 net (gross score minus handicaps); and Ed Peterson, 69 net.

Harley Loker and Ray Deell each shot gross 73s over the weekend at Neenah Ridge-way. Dick Spangenberg fired a 76, and Bob Hogan and Elmer Selig turned in 78s.

Saturday's Saw eespiakes event was won by a team composed of Loker, Julius Herzfeldt, Bert Huss and Don Wirth. In second place were Jack Fumal, Ray Moses, John Rezba and "Bud" Ryan.

Third was a team of Dar Wamsley, Ole Jorgensen, "Scudder" Smith and Ken Wruck.

The only reported low at Appleton's Reid Muni course, aside from previously reported Adler Brau tourney scores, was a 79 by Hank Kersten.

A mixed 2-ball foursome is slated for Appleton Ridge-way Friday.

Citizen Has Important Role in Highway Safety

Citizen interest and action play the key role in any traffic accident-prevention program. Dan F. Schutz, director of safety for the state motor vehicle department, told members of the Outagamie County Citizens' Safety conference Monday night at the courthouse annex.

"When enough citizens become sincerely interested in demanding better, more effective means of fighting traffic accidents," he said, "only then will we really start showing progress."

Programs outlined by the state agency will be effective only when they are adopted and pushed by citizens as state-wide, area and local programs, he pointed out.

The citizen must be interested enough in the cause of accident prevention to personally know and understand

They are Gordon Bubolz, Appleton, chairman; William Morrissey, Hortonville, vice chairman; and Clifford Braeger, Greenville, secretary.

The organization reelected Braeger and Lawrence Rebmman, Bear Creek, and named George Ward, Appleton, as a new member of the governing board. They will serve 2-year terms. Hold-over members include William Van Hout, Kimberly, Joseph Weyers, Freedom, Bubolz and Morrissey.

Charlie to Make Side Trip After Delightful French River Journey

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Key Harbour, Ont.—This morning I viewed the blue, beautiful waters of Lake Huron at Georgian bay. I am filled with humble happiness as I look out at the same scene which confronted Samuel de Champlain in 1615 and Jean Nicolet in 1634.

Here ended Champlain's brave voyage to the west. And here Jean Nicolet kicked up the threads of history and journeyed on to discover for the world my lovely homeland to be known as the Northwest territory.

And here, at long last, I leave the immediate trail of my predecessor for he traveled south to the head of Georgian bay to visit Indians there.

I now travel to Lake Elliot to get the story of the greatest uranium deposit in the world, and the how, why and what of it.

Somewhat sadly I will part company, though only briefly, from my canoe. "The Green Apple," and from my faithful, unflinching little "pusher," the outboard motor which unquestionably has saved my life more than once.

Wild Cherry Blossoms

Today's ride under flowering skies was pretty, the weather notwithstanding. The red granite cliffs along the French river are dotted with wild cherry trees in full blossom. Gusts of winds often showered me with the pretty petals which tumbled through the air like soft snowflakes.

It seemed so pleasant a way to reach a destination which I cannot help regarding as the start of the trail of my journey. For now I have finished with the turbulent rivers, the Ottawa, the Mattawa and the rapid-stream, beautiful French.

Still before me are the waters of Lake Huron, Lake Michigan, the lazy Fox river and Lake Winnebago. I must hope that, when I rejoin "The Green Apple," the weather will be kind. Today wind-swept Georgian bay is in a bounding turmoil—no place for my little canoe—and the day is cold and unsuitable for a ducking in the wild waters.

The final 20-mile sweep down the French river gave me white rapids to shoot with glee, but it also gave me three portages over waterfalls, especially the Recollet falls which has taken many lives over the 34 years since Champlain first portaged the wild waters there.

Dangerous Falls

As one approaches, the sound of the falls is ominous and frightening. And one rounds a bend in the river to come almost to the lip of the fast water. Despite warning signs "rapids ahead," Recollet falls claims more than its fair share of victims. Last week it claimed its latest, an Ojibway Indian.

Authorities have strung a long cable across the river—a last-ditch chance to hang onto life. And many a man has been fished off the cable, horrified at the prospect of adding his life to the total taken by Recollet falls.

The first of the falls on the French river, the Chaudiere, has stolen many a life, too. I have read that at one time 13 crosses lined the banks of that river at the falls. It was the custom of the voyageur to place a cross at every rapids where a life was lost, though I could find no authority, for none now exists, the best estimate I could obtain for death on Chaudiere was "hundreds."

The French river, like the Ottawa and Mattawa, was the principal highway to the northwest for many generations. Hardy voyageurs in great numbers traveled over this ancient highway with furs and trade goods by the ton.

Voyageur Customs

Each pair of hands was kept busy in various bundles, and each voyageur was responsible for six of them. This was the custom.

The owners of trading canoes had very special traffic rules, not unrelated to ours of today. Since the voyageurs were tough and fearless and despised portages, they tried to run many rapids—even water falls—rather than carry their burdens even a few yards. Hence, merchants always specified which rapids might be run and which were to be portaged. These traffic rules always specified that portages must be made over Chaudiere and Recollet. As for this latter-day voy-

They called the wind "la veille" meaning "the old woman," and they offered her gifts for kindness—a pinch of tobacco, a little flour or anything of some value.

I too wish I could keep la-veille placid, for I'm off tomorrow to Blind river, and 40 miles inland, Lake Elliot, the site of the richest uranium mines in the world.
